

Chinese In Ugly Mood As Parley Draws To Close

Civil War Looms Between North and South Areas of China as Demand for Shantung Adjustment is Pressed at Conference

U. S. DEMANDS ADJUSTMENT

American Delegates are Determined to Have Far East Points of Controversy Settled Before Representatives Start for Home

(By Carl D. Groat)
Washington.—America is exerting every effort to prevent the arms conference breaking up without settling affairs in the Far East—generally regarded as the region most likely to breed war. During the last few days, as the great naval treaty providing for reduction and limitation of the navies of the five powers was nearing completion, this government has noted with concern an apparent intention on the part of other delegations to hasten home, and leave unsettled such vital questions as Shantung, Siberia, and other Chinese questions, outstanding among which are the Japanese 21 demands.

Suggestions have been made in some American naval quarters that the United States should refuse to sign the naval treaty until agreements are reached on Far Eastern questions.

Meantime, the naval treaty—its acceptance probably postponed by Japanese reference to the fortifications clause in Tokyo—was to be further considered Wednesday forenoon by the big five delegates. Progress therein is satisfactory. In fact, Arthur J. Balfour holds it to be "royal" despite the fact that some time is lost by the Japanese commission. Perhaps it will be signed on Thursday or Friday.

As for Shantung, it was said that Wednesday's meeting, accomplished through aid of Secretary Hughes and Balfour, was to consider collateral issues instead of the Shantung railroad itself. But the meeting got together and was to be a good deal for the future. The Shantung situation had reached a really critical stage.

MAY RENEW RIDICULE
One of the Chinese representatives, known to have been sounding out senatorial sentiment, declared that the slogan raised during the Versailles fight, would arise again if Shantung is not settled here. The treaties would not pass. Balfour stayed over because he knew that and would not dare to leave with the Shantung question unsettled and the fate of the treaties in absolute danger.

At the same time disquieting messages of threatened civil war came from Peking.

The famous general, Wu Pei Fu, has thrown down the gauntlet to Premier Liang Shih-chang, virtually accusing him of being a traitor and selling out to Japan in the Shantung matter. This challenge means, according to Ma So, South China representative, and others, that the northern (supposedly pro-Japanese) General Chang Tso-Lin must depose the premier.

Some saw the prospect of a new outbreak of civil war—the direct result of the Shantung situation.

OCEAN VESSELS IN DANGER AS STORM ENVELOPES EAST

Northeaster is Reeking Havoc With Wires—Ships Scurry Toward Port

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—Roaring along the northeast coast, a terrific northeaster, with a velocity of 50 miles an hour, struck the coast Wednesday, held the eastern part of the United States in its icy grip.

Vessels at sea were imperiled, buffeted by a gale which at times attained a velocity of 50 miles an hour. Ships near shore hurried for shelter. About 20 vessels outside quarantine were forced to weather the storm, unable to negotiate the channel. Damage to property and disruption of rail and motor traffic were reported along the coast from Maine to Virginia.

An army of wind and waves, was howling slowly into port through a tremendous sea with troops on board. Five big liners were tossed like chips in the huge waves off Sandy Hook.

Wires were going down throughout the east, towns reported without electric lighting systems out of order. Business on the New York stock exchange was affected when houses with western connections found telegraph lines out of order.

POSTPONE READJUSTMENT OF STATE SUGAR RATES

Washington.—Proposed readjustment of freight rates on sugar, which contemplated both increases and decreases from New Orleans and points in Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri and Mississippi, was suspended Wednesday until May 11 by the interstate commerce commission.

"Millinery" Is Correct Term For Foot Dress

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Girls who are way out of date if you still wear shoes.

Feet should be covered with foot millinery or you may as well go barefooted; that is, if you are a stickler for style.

Shoe merchants from those on Fifth-ave. to the one at the cross roads junction, agreed on this Wednesday at the style revue of the National Shoe Retailers association. Short skirts have brought the feet of American girls and women out in front and have made it necessary to adorn them exquisitely, according to A. F. Bancroft, Boston manufacturer.

"It used to be that anything that kept the feet warm and dry was all right for women," said Bancroft. "That was back in the days when shoes were called foot-dresses."

"Modern covering of the feet is not the only thing now. Foot millinery must now fit into the general ensemble of a woman's appearance since short skirts came in."

SENATE POLL FAVORS SEAT FOR NEWBERRY

Canvass by Senator's Managers Indicates Close Vote, Perhaps Favorable

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—Three of the half dozen "uncertain" Republican senators have decided to vote against seating Senator Newberry, one has decided to vote for him and two are still in doubt.

This, it was stated Wednesday by one of the group, is the lineup resulting from Newberry's personal defense and as a result of conferences among the "uncertain" group.

This development makes it certain the vote on seating Newberry will be close.

The latest poll of Newberry's managers, made up Wednesday and based on their latest information, showed a vote of 48 for him and 43 against him, with Johnson, California, and Weller, Maryland, not voting and Crow, Pennsylvania, paired with Kendrick, Wyoming.

Another development Wednesday was the decision of Democratic senators to offer a motion to send the Newberry case back to committee for further investigation with instructions to report back to the senate within 30 days.

Senator Lenoir, one of the doubtful group who has been absent from Washington returned Wednesday.

STRIKE AIR MAIL FUNDS FROM POSTOFFICE BILL

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—The house appropriations committee, in reporting the postoffice appropriation bill Wednesday, struck out all appropriations for the air mail service.

The bill carries a total of $579,650,068. Postmaster General Harris has asked $2,200,000 for the air mail.

U. S. LEARNING WORLD LEAGUE IS NOT "DEAD"

Second Anniversary of League's Birth Finds America Drifting Toward It

WILSON DOCTRINE LIVES

Cordell Hull Blames Depression to U. S. Failure to Join With Europe

By David Lawrence
(Copyright, 1922, by Post, Pub. Co.)
Washington.—Two years to a day have passed since the League of Nations was born but only in the citizen's imagination does the man who had most to do with its creation celebrate the birthday. Woodrow Wilson, admittedly the parent of the league of nations which now embraces 51 nations, did not interrupt his silence to point out that the league which had been declared "dead" so many times was still alive and functioning. Nor did he lift his voice to contend that while America had not yet joined the league, there was no association of nations in existence as yet to take the place of the league.

WILSON DOCTRINE LIVES

SPOKESMEN NOW FEW
Nor are there any spokesmen for the Wilson viewpoint, arguing the case one way or another. The Democrats who followed Wilson when he was in office are not the same. Most of them have drifted from the Wilson standard and taken it for granted that the league is a dead affair so far as the United States is concerned. Only a small group clings to the notion that the league has nine lives and can't be killed and that the major issue of the 1924 presidential campaign will be the League of Nations again. In the recent speech of Cordell Hull, newly elected chairman of the Democratic national committee, is seen the term of the Wilson doctrine as it may be applied to future campaigns—an argument that the present business depression is due directly to the failure of the United States to join with the other powers in the preservation of the peace of the world, particularly Europe.

Hull's plea for economic cooperation and his statement that a worldwide economic conference is essential "is but the corollary to the Democratic argument that the lack of economic cooperation in the last two years is responsible for present conditions."

DEMOCRATIC PARTY

But Mr. Wilson is shared by no means shared by his party in congress. It isn't that he is opposed. It is simply that the Democrats have no pronounced policy on foreign affairs and that when President Harding shrewdly took under his wing for the armament conference the Democratic leader in the senate—Oscar Underwood—left his political opponents to flounder.

On the other hand, if the Democrats are divided and have no objective, the Republicans have awakened to their new responsibilities in foreign affairs. There are Republicans here who believe in the armament conference, the sending of Ambassador Harvey to the supreme council meetings, the dispatch of observers to the financial conferences on international exchange and the probable participation of the United States in the economic conference called for next month in Genoa are all signs which show the wind is blowing in the direction of a League of Nations, or association of nations as the case may be.

"FATTY'S" TRIAL RESUMED TODAY

Second Battle for Freedom of Comedian Opens With New Witnesses Slated

By United Press Leased Wire
San Francisco.—Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle mustered his legions Wednesday for his second battle.

The famed movie comedian, ruddy of face, looking solemn but not broken, dressed in a blue Norfolk suit, his pretty wife at his side, and a host of lawyers, publicity men, clerks, stenographers and aids de camp clustering around him, was ready early for a resumption of his defense against charges of having taken the life of Virginia Rappe.

"We will have few new witnesses," Gavin McNah, chief counsel for Arbuckle, said before court opened.

"We expect to be able to prove beyond a doubt the innocence of Mr. Arbuckle. We believe we did that at the first trial."

District Attorney Matthew Brady, personally leading the prosecution, was in a warlike mood.

"We have evidence to present this time which will greatly strengthen our case and which will render useless to the defense certain of the witnesses who figured in the last trial."

4-INCH WIRE IN HEART CAUSED DEATH OF COW

Brainerd, Minn.—Four inches of wire lodged in the heart near her heart caused the death of a $500 Holstein cow owned by W. A. Blakey of the Cuyuna dairy farm. A nail, a penny and a burr were found in the cow's stomach.

The articles are believed to have been in milk feed given the cow.

STATE BUILDERS WILL DISCUSS "OPEN SHOP"

By United Press Leased Wire
La Crosse.—The open shop question is the most important topic before the tenth annual convention of the Master Builders association of Wisconsin which opens here Wednesday. Leon Lamfrom, Milwaukee council of the Milwaukee employers council, will speak Thursday on "The Economic and Legal Aspects of the Open Shop." This will be followed by a discussion of the situation in Wisconsin by the delegates. Five hundred master builders from Wisconsin, eastern Minnesota and northeastern Iowa are here to attend the convention.

Unite U. S. Forces To Force Price Cuts

Harding and Cabinet Will Lead Movement to Curb Profiteering—Grand Jury Action Authorized—Jail Sentences Promised

Washington.—All of the powers of the federal government will be used to force down prices and punish profiteers by jail sentences and fines under orders issued by President Harding and his cabinet Wednesday.

A triple investigation of living costs will be made, to be followed by grand jury action whenever warranted. The departments of justice, labor and commerce have united to find out why prices remain high. Attorney General Daugherty, Secretary Davis and Secretary Hoover will confer in a day or two. Meanwhile, the criminal and secret service divisions of the departments of labor and justice will be coordinated to hunt down the profiteers.

Daugherty already has taken these steps: Summoning federal and state officials to a conference in New York, to agree on a concrete program to be applied all over the country.

Orders to United States district attorneys to rush to trial their cases against building material manufacturers and redoubt efforts to complete investigations of building material profiteering.

The next step is designed to force down high rents.

MILLER, G. O. P. SECRETARY, DEAD

Noted Political Leader is Victim of Appendicitis in St. Paul

St. Paul.—Clarence B. Miller, secretary of the Republican national committee, died last Tuesday at Miller hospital one week after an operation for relief from appendicitis.

Miller's condition was critical from the start because of his heart condition. He was able to take only a local anesthetic for the operation.

A native of Minnesota, Miller was one of the best known politicians in the country. His work in the rehabilitation of the Republican party in 1920 was his lasting recognition.

Miller was born in Goodhue county, Minnesota, and educated in Minnesota schools. His body will probably be placed in a vault here until spring and then be taken to Pine Island, his home, for burial there.

SHIPMENT OF SILKS IS STOLEN DURING TRANSIT

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee.—Silks valued at $1,500 were stolen while in transit from Chicago to Milwaukee from a North Shore baggage car Dec. 23, according to a report to the police here Wednesday.

According to the report, the silks which had been placed in a large trunk were consigned to the Phoenix Knitting company here by Oscar Heinemann, of Chicago.

Among the contents of the trunk were 128 spools of Japanese silk thread valued at $1,000.

HARDING WILL LEAD IN MOVE TO AID FARMER

President Believes Situation So Serious He Personally Will Urge Relief

Washington.—The critical financial condition of the farmer is engaging the growing share of President Harding's attention in connection with the agricultural conference which meets here Jan. 23.

He considers the situation so serious that he is planning to open the conference in person with an address outlining the need of relief.

Harding is of the opinion that measures of relief will have to be of a voluntary private nature for the most part. Official charges feel that the government has extended all the direct financial aid that is wise.

BANDIT TOLD 2 VICTIMS HE WAS TOMMY O'CONNOR

St. Paul.—A masked bandit who staged two daring holdups during the rush hour Tuesday night informed his victims he was "terrible Tommy O'Connor." Police said he was masquerading as the Chicago bandit. The man held up Leo Horwitz, clerk in a clothing store and took cash and jewelry valued at $150. Later he robbed the Schloff Clothing store of about $150 and a hat. Robert Schaffert, clerk in the latter place, chased the bandit several blocks and a policeman who joined the chase fired several shots at the bandit without effect. He escaped.

COUGERS LOST NICE SUM WHEN EGGS HIT SKIDS IN CHICAGO

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—The retail price of eggs hit new low marks for the winter Wednesday when six million dozen were dumped on market.

Speculators, unable to pay their margins, lost $900,000 in crash, it was said.

Wholesale prices dropped 5 1/2 cents a dozen.

Fresh eggs retailed from 39 to 40 cents and storage at 29.

HOLD FARMERS DEGRADED IN CREAM TESTS

State Marketing Department Files Action Against Creameries and Cheesemakers

Madison.—Charging the publication of false monthly milk statements and manipulation of the Babcock butterfat tests to mislead customers into believing they are receiving more than they really get, the state department of markets Wednesday filed action against two cooperative creameries and two cheesemakers.

This is the second gun of the market department's campaign against unfair competition. Complaint was filed Tuesday against the Standard Oil company for alleged discriminatory practices in selling gasoline to garage men.

Defendants in this case, which is in charge of George L. Mooney, special examiner for the department, are:

Kora Cooperative Creamery association, Berlin, Wis.

Green Lake Farmers' Cooperative association, Green Lake, Wis.

Joseph Junk, cheesemaker, Brillion, Wis.

Henry J. Rhyner, cheesemaker, Medford, Wis.

Public hearing of the cases will be held in the common council chamber of Milwaukee city on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock Jan. 14.

J. G. Moore, Milwaukee, secretary of the Wisconsin Dairy Protective association and H. C. Larson, Madison, secretary of the Wisconsin Butter Makers association have been called as witnesses by the department.

The charges relate principally to the publication of "false and misleading monthly statements" and one is said to include charges of violation of the state criminal statute forbidding the manipulation of the Babcock butterfat test.

The marketing department is said to be contemplating the issuance of an order generally directed against such practices as are alleged in these cases, applying to both cooperative and privately owned creameries and cheese factories, and defining these and similar practices as "unfair competition."

AUTOISTS DYING; RACED WITH TRAIN

Engineer Sees Speeding Car Turn Turtle—Stops Train, To Effect Rescue

By United Press Leased Wire
Monroe.—Two persons are near death here Wednesday as the result of an automobile accident near here Tuesday night. The victims are Fred Hansen, 22, and Clara Streubel, 20, both of Brodhead, Wis.

The automobile in which they were riding, turned turtle going at a rate of about 50 miles an hour when they were racing with a Milwaukee road train. The engineer saw the car wrecked, stopped the train and with the aid of several passengers loaded the injured persons on board the train and brought them here.

The engineer told of watching the progress of the car, seeing it skid, turn over several times and land on its side in the ditch. When he arrived at the scene, he said both victims were pinned beneath the wreckage. Both are said to be seriously injured.

Peace For Europe Aim Of Anglo-French Pact

ENGLAND WILL RELEASE 2,000 SINN FEINERS

Truce Until Feb. 14 Will Give Dail Chance to Form Irish Free State

De Valera is Overruled by Griffith as to Procedure to Draft Government

By United Press Leased Wire
Dublin.—Release of 2,000 imprisoned Sinn Feiners, including 40 sentenced to death for their part in attacks against British troops in Ireland, was expected to take place Wednesday or Thursday, according to advices from Dublin castle.

A temporary truce has been declared by the warring factions within Sinn Fein.

The dail circinn has adjourned until St. Valentine's day and the Griffith government has a month's respite from the attacks of Eamonn De Valera and his followers in which to push forward plans for establishing the new Irish free state.

Arthur Griffith Wednesday declared he and his ministers would use all the machinery of the dail to bring the free state into being. De Valera had objected that the Sinn Fein parliament, established by the "republic" could not be used for this purpose, but the treaty supporters, secure in their majority, point out that the former president and his followers recognized the Griffith government by returning to the dail meeting Tuesday after their stampede preceding the election.

Irish people will be asked to approve the new state by taking part in an election of officers. (A sweeping victory for Griffith and his cabinet is confidently expected, following the final defeat of De Valera.)

FAMED WARRIOR OF JAPAN NEAR DEATH

Prince Yamagata is Last Leader of "Genro"—Still Remains in Power

By United Press Leased Wire
Tokyo.—The illness of Prince Yamagata has become much more serious. It was learned here Wednesday.

"The last leader of the 'genro' who has never lost a fight, is now battling the final contest of his career against age sickness—and the odds are against the old warrior and statesman who for many years has been the real ruler of Japan, politically."

Yamagata, 85 years old—a year older than Marquis Okuma, who died two days ago—will remain boss to the last.

Sick though he is, he is still the most powerful figure behind the scenes in the Japanese government.

Yamagata is the sole survivor of the original group of dynamic men known as "genro" or "elder statesmen" who bridged the gap between medievalism and modernity.

RODE ON ROOF OF COACH; NEAR DEATH

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee.—As a result of being stuck by a wrenching timber of a railroad bridge near Chicago while riding on top of a passenger train to this city, two men are in a serious condition at a local hospital here Wednesday.

Mike Martin and Walter Stuck, both of Milwaukee, said they were riding on Milwaukee during the storm of the passenger coach. After being struck, they got down at the first stop north of Chicago and were taken to the baggage car and given first aid treatment while on the way to the hospital here.

Stuck, whose skull was fractured, said a third man was with them and that he had been knocked off the top of the coach and probably killed.

VOCATIONAL MENTORS CONVENE IN MILWAUKEE

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee.—Hundreds of educators of the middlewest made a tour of the city schools here Wednesday morning and officially opened the second annual conference of Vocational Education Association to be held here Wednesday and Thursday.

The first regular session will be held Wednesday afternoon when the industrial educational section meets in conference on public school supervision of employed students.

Stole $70,000, Bank Charged; Took Only $20

By United Press Leased Wire
Fargo, N. D.—Charged with embezzlement of $70,000 from the Scandinavian-American bank, Francis C. Heaton was found guilty by a jury late Tuesday of embezzling not more than $20.

The verdict lays Heaton liable to a maximum sentence of 30 days in jail or $100 fine. His defense was that he was "made the goat" in many "shady deals" by the bank's officials.

Heaton will be sentenced Thursday.

975 SOLDIERS IN PERIL WHEN SHIP SPRINGS BAD LEAK

Transport Crooke, Heading In to Stom, Is Able to Proceed Under Own Steam

New York.—With water entering her hold through leaky plates, the old army transport Crooke carrying 975 troops home from Germany, is heading into the worst storm of the winter, 200 miles off the New England coast.

The weather bureau at Boston sent out warnings of a "storm of hurricane force" and that the transport would be in the storm zone.

Officers of the army transport service here while professing to believe the Crooke is in no immediate peril, were waiting for further radio advices as the hurricane swept down upon the crippled and laboring transport with her cargo of soldiers.

The Crooke with four feet of water in number one hold, was making only nine knots an hour under her own steam. The leak started when two rivets were found defective. Against the water gained five inches an hour over the pumps.

Heroic efforts to caulk the leaks resulted in the flow being controlled so the pumps could hold it down.

The coast cutter Ossipee steamed from Portland, Maine, to the assistance of the Crooke. The cutter Tampa also was sent from Boston.

The Crooke has been in the service 20 years.

In addition to the troops aboard, the Crooke carries a number of soldier dead.

A message received Wednesday morning read:

"Have all looks calked. Proceeding under own steam. Making nine miles an hour. Ships in close proximity. Danger passed."

OFFICERS DENY REPORTED CRIMES

Say Stories by Doughboys About Deaths Without Trial Are "Camp Gossip"

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—High army officers were called before the senate investigating committee Wednesday to answer to the charges that American soldiers were hanged without trial in France.

One of the officers called was Col. Joseph D. Hahn of Camp Benning, Ga., charged by a doughboy witness with directing the lynching of a negro soldier at Givres, France. Hahn at that time was a captain.

Another witness was Col. Charles J. Symonds of Camp Sherman, Ohio, who commanded the American camp at Givres during the war.

"Only one soldier, a man found guilty of murder was hanged at Givres," Symonds declared. Previous witnesses testified that two hangings took place there, besides the lynching alleged to have been directed by Col. Hahn.

Col. Symonds scoffed at the charge against Captain Hahn, declaring that a lynching could not have occurred in the camp without word of it reaching him.

MILWAUKEE HOST TO CHEESEMAKERS

Milwaukee.—Wisconsin cheesemakers, who produce more than two-thirds of the product in the nation, opened their thirteenth annual convention here Wednesday and will continue until Friday.

"The biggest cheese convention in the world," said J. E. Sammis, secretary of the association, in speaking of the convention.

More than 1,000 cheesemakers from all parts of Wisconsin are in attendance. The feature of the convention is the cheese show and more than 200 prizes are being offered.

Defensive Agreement is Basis for Entente to Prevent Future Wars

STOPS NAVY COMPETITION

Premier Briand Hastens to Paris to Quiet Objections of His Cabinet

By United Press Leased Wire
Cannes, France.—A memorandum, containing the conditions upon which Great Britain will agree to a defensive pact with France, was issued here Wednesday afternoon.

It makes the first condition of the alliance that there shall be no naval competition between France and England, and provides that British naval experts shall confer with the French, with a view to cutting down the latter's program to prevent such competition.

The second condition laid down by Lloyd George was the author of the memorandum, calls for French agreement to the international conference proposed for Genoa in March, which is to include Germany and Russia.

WANT WIDER TREATY

The third British condition is that the defensive pact with France shall form the basis for a wider scheme of international entente to guarantee peace; that is, an all-European treaty.

The German delegation has been directed to appear before the reparations commission Wednesday night.

Walter Rathenau and a German delegation of financial experts, accompanied by fifty chattering women secretaries, arrived here Wednesday to confer with the supreme council regarding reparations.

Premier Briand, it was announced semi-officially Wednesday afternoon, following the arrival of the Germans, may go to Paris for 24 hours to attend an extraordinary session of his cabinet and to confer with President Millerand.

BRAND TO EXPLAIN

In French circles Wednesday it was said that Briand was returning to Paris to explain to the chamber his position regarding reparations and the Anglo-French pact. To ask a further vote of confidence.

It was feared by members of the French delegation Briand and his cabinet might be overthrown by the Germans. Wednesday continued their discussions.

A great crowd of French citizens and visitors gathered at the station as the train from Paris arrived with the German emissaries. It was this part of France's first glimpse of real Germans for several years. The antics of some of the German women secretaries and their vociferousness caused considerable adverse comment. Popular feeling here was that the delegation should have arrived with downcast eyes.

BACK LLOYD GEORGE

London.—The British cabinet Wednesday was reported to have approved Lloyd George's draft of an Anglo-French pact. The British hold this will not be an alliance in the general sense of the term, but will be merely a defensive pact, designed to aid France against German aggression.

It is this interpretation of the proposed alliance which has caused the greatest indignation in French official circles and in the Paris press.

Swine Breeders of State Take Optimistic View of the Future

O. P. Cuff of Hortonville was elected vice president of Wisconsin Duroc-Jersey Breeders' association at the annual meeting at the Sherman house Tuesday evening, succeeding W. W. Bird of Cambria. E. H. Parker of Janesville was reelected president; T. P. Shreve of Janesville, secretary; and Roy Cronwall of Livingston, director, the latter succeeding Elwin Bartholomew of Penunmore. The judge recommended for the state fair, one of whom will be selected, were Robert Watt, Cedarville, O.; H. H. Kildee, Ames, Ia.; and Prof. Mumford of Ann Arbor, Mich.

President Parker presided at the meeting. The treasurer's report showed the receipts during the year to have been $785 and expenditures $485, leaving a balance on hand of $300. A resolution was adopted urging the state fair board appropriate the sum of $500 for a Duroc maturity show at the state fair. President Parker urged the necessity of county judges securing competent judges. He related instances where this had not been done to the detriment of the fair.

DISCUSS BOYS' CLUBS

The boys' pig club proposition was discussed at length from all angles. Twenty members agreed to donate pigs. Numerous opinions were expressed as to the best method of conducting the pig clubs. In St. Croix, Co. it was learned the school boards had charged of them. Nearly every county had its own method of conducting them. Secretary Shreve objected to the present method of getting the pigs from the donors to the club, but in an endless amount of correspondence and delay. The president was instructed to appoint a committee to thresh out the matter which he said he would announce at the sale Wednesday.

The visitors were the guests of the Outagamie-co. Duroc-Jersey breeders' association at a banquet at the Sherman house preceding the meeting at which Paul O. Nyhus acted as toastmaster. O. P. Cuff welcomed the members of the state association to the city on behalf of the Outagamie-co. Duroc-Jersey association which he said had not yet celebrated its second birthday anniversary. President Shreve made very satisfactory progress and that every effort in its promotion had been well expended.

OPTIMISTIC VIEW

The brief address of welcome was responded to in a happy vein by E. H. Parker of Janesville, president of the state association. Mr. Parker assured the county association that the state organization appreciated its effort. Mr. Parker related what the

FORDS RUN 34 MILES ON GALLON GASOLINE

Start Easy in Coldest Weather—Other Cars Show Proportionate Saving

A new carburetor which cuts down gasoline consumption of any motor and reduces gasoline bills from one-third to one-half is the proud achievement of the Air-Friction Carburetor Co., 146 Madison-st., Dayton, Ohio. This remarkable invention not only increases the power of motors from 30 to 50 per cent, but enables every one to run slow on high gear. It also makes it easy to start a Ford or any other car in the coldest weather. You can use the very cheapest gasoline and half kerosene and still get more power and more mileage than you now get from the highest test gasoline. All Ford owners can get as high as 24 miles to a gallon of gasoline. So sure are the manufacturers of the immense saving their new carburetor will make that they offer to send it on 30 days' trial to every car owner. As it can be put on or taken off in a few minutes by anyone, all readers of this paper who want to try it should send their name, address and make of car to the manufacturers at once. They also want local agents, to whom they offer exceptionally large profits. Write them today. adv.

KNIGHTS TO ATTEND C. OF C. MEETING

Appleton assembly of fourth degree Knights of Columbus will attend the chamber of commerce forum dinner Thursday night in a body, it was announced Wednesday by Attorney John Morgan.

The assembly had planned on an educational meeting of its own the same evening but it was decided that since two meetings of a somewhat similar nature were to be held the same evening it would be better to cooperate in making one a success.

Members of the assembly were anxious to hear the address of H. C. Baldwin on the outlook for 1922, so arrangements were made.

Over 100 reservations have been received by the chamber of commerce Wednesday. The dinner will be held in Elk hall, beginning at 6:15 sharp.

state association had accomplished and what it expected to do in the future.

J. Haeger of Peoria, Ill., assistant secretary of the National Duroc-Jersey association, delivered an address on the 1922 outlook for Durocs and took a most optimistic view. He said he had studied the hog situation very thoroughly, especially that of the Duroc-Jersey hog, and said it never looked brighter than at the present time. He said there was nothing that would get the country back to its normal condition as quickly as the raising of hogs and he knew of nothing more profitable.

Dr. Ray C. Finkle of Seymour, a rival of Richard, wizard, entertained the breeders with a slight of hand performance for nearly an hour.

L. H. McKay of the Wisconsin college of agriculture told of the extensive plans for 1922 and T. P. Shreve of Janesville discussed Durocs in Wisconsin.

Hugh G. Corbett, managing secretary of the chamber of commerce, told several typical stories. Five minute pep talks were delivered by Leon Robbins of the Wisconsin Agriculturist; Riley Martiny, Baraboo; Edward Mehlke, Seymour; E. M. Larson, Sheboygan Falls; F. J. Rueping, Fond du Lac; Frank Constance, Waupaca; Reed Murray, Oshkosh; James Lacey, Green Lake; Clarence Croft, Janesville; Fred Krahn, Seymour; James Dane, Waupaca; George Fruin, Blanks, Wis.; Ray Lewis, West Salem; P. J. Blanshan, Seymour; and Paul O. Nyhus.

ONE CHANGE IS MADE IN ANNUAL BANK MEETINGS

E. E. Sager is Reelected to New Office in First Trust Company

Annual meetings of three banks and one trust company were held here Tuesday evening and only one change was made in the four elections. E. E. Sager was elected assistant secretary and assistant treasurer of the First Trust Co. This is a new office created this year.

All the stockholders' meetings were well attended and it was reported that all the banks are in prosperous condition. Following are the elections:

WATERMANS PLEASE IN JOINT CONCERT

Program of English Songs Make Fine Impression on Large Audience

An unusually large audience greeted Dean and Mrs. Carl J. Waterman in their joint recital in Lawrence Memorial chapel Tuesday evening when they gave a delightful program of English songs. The opening and closing numbers of the concert were duets by both artists, the first from Thais by Massenet and the last from Madame Butterfly by Puccini in which the clear bell like notes of Mrs. Waterman harmonized pleasingly with the strong tenor of her husband's voice.

Mrs. Waterman's presentation of her share of the program was characterized by the lovely tone quality of her voice which has made her an Appleton favorite since her student days at Lawrence Conservatory of Music. In the light and tuneful selections her voice shows off to best advantage.

Schaefer, H. K. Pratt and H. F. Hecker, directors. Outagamie State bank—Fred Stoffel, president; L. H. Keller, vice president; Frank Groh, cashier; Joseph Dohr, assistant cashier; Fred Stoffel, L. H. Keller, H. A. Gloudomans, William Fountain, George Schiedermay, Sr., J. J. Plank, Nick Dohr and Frank Groh, directors.

Appleton State bank held its annual meeting of stockholders Jan. 3 and reelected all directors. A meeting of directors will be held in a few days.

Mary Anderson in PERSON

Can you picture two less similar types than Anita Stewart and Mary Anderson—Anita, graceful, dignified, of dusky beauty and tragic mien, and Mary, vivacious, petite, blonde and so constantly effervescent that picture folks nicknamed her "Sunshine."

Theirs must be a case of "opposites attract," for it was a lifelong friendship with Anita Stewart that won Mary her first opportunity in the movies.

"Anita and I lived in the same block in Brooklyn," Mary explained.

"We had two cottages just alike—her family and mine. They were funny little gray affairs with five small rooms, a neat picket fence and a cellar door at the rear."

"That was back in the days when good mothers didn't permit their youngsters even to go to the store for candy. Anita and her little sister, Lucy weren't given much liberty. Neither were my sisters and I. So Anita and Lucy used to come down and play with us."

"When Anita went to Erasmus Hall to high school, where the Talmadges also attended, I had to go, too, although I was almost three years younger than the others. We were really inseparable."

So it followed that when Anita had begun to make good in the movies she told many alluring accounts of the picture profession and, as soon as the opportunity presented itself at the Vitagraph studios, urged the little blonde friend to "come on in." The little friend came, and has been in ever since.

Her best known pictures, since she made her bow with Vitagraph, have been False Faces, Bubbles, her current starring picture. Too Much Married, and Two Minutes to Go, in which she played the lead opposite Charles Ray.

MUST REPORT ALL REALTY SALES TO INCOME OFFICER

Slight Changes Have Been Made in Wisconsin Income Tax Law

When state income tax blanks are mailed out about Feb. 1 by John A. Lonsdorf, assessor of incomes, they will be accompanied by separate blank for report on sales of real estate closed by the taxpayer during 1921.

"Those receiving the special blanks should fill them out carefully so that the true profit on the sale can be figured by the assessor of incomes", Mr. Lonsdorf said. "In all sales where a building was sold, be it residence, barn shed, store, flat or factory, depreciation on that must be figured as profit. For most frame buildings such depreciation is generally two and one-half per cent each year."

"For example if a man bought a piece of property in 1920 for $10,000 and sold it in 1921 for $10,000 he would gain no money profit on the sale but he would have gained a legal profit of $250. This is because the law regards the depreciation on the property to be two and one-half per cent each year and properly worth $10,000 in 1920 would be worth only $9,750 in 1921 legally speaking. So that if sale is made at the purchase price, the owner is considered to have made $250."

DEDUCT IMPROVEMENTS
"The cost of improvements on property sold may be deducted from the profit. If property was owned before 1911 the true value on Jan. 1, 1911 is considered as the cost price. Most taxpayers value the property too high on that date. From 1911 to 1921 there was a great increase in the value of property and that increase is profit. The assessed value in 1921 is up to 100 per cent in 1911. Any increase over the 1911 value received when the property is sold is part of the profit from the transaction."

"The assessor of incomes reserves the right to revise the value quoted for 1911 if he feels the taxpayers have set it too high. Any increase over the 1911 value received when the property is sold is part of the profit from the transaction."

"To this increase must be added the depreciation and from the amount the cost of improvements are deducted to get the profit. Any increase over the 1911 value received when the property is sold is part of the profit from the transaction."

FEW CHANGES IN LAW
"There are only a few changes in the state income tax law during the last year. One change is that interest on business can be deducted. Interest paid out on money invested in business in Wisconsin is deductible but interest paid on a mortgage on one's home or on personal debts by a professional or working man is not deductible. Another change is that only 10 per cent of the net income may be allowed for charity if this much was given, instead of 15 per cent as heretofore."

"Married people who earn over $1,200 and $200 additional for each child and single persons who earn over $800 must file income reports no matter what their expenses were. All who get blanks or notices must report to avoid fines."

LOW RATE IN KIMBERLY
"The place of residence should be stated correctly and attention is called to the fact that the rate is not always the same as the mail address. One may reside in Vandenberg but get his mail at Little Chute. If this is the case his report should give his address as Vandenberg. In most cases the place of residence is the place to pay the income tax. If the income tax residence is given the tax will be payable to the treasurer of the wrong district."

"Seventy per cent of the amount collected in income taxes stays in the home district. In Kimberly this year the amount received from the income tax has been sufficient so that only two mills is raised on the property assessed at $3,000 will be taxed $15. Combined Locks also has a low rate of 12 mills due to the heavy income tax. The presumption is that what is paid in income tax should reduce the property tax by that much."

SEEK TO STIR UP MORE INTEREST IN H. S. GAMES

Harold Briesse, captain of the high school basketball team, addressed the student body during assembly period Tuesday morning at the pep rally. The meeting was held for the purpose of stimulating more interest in the coming basketball season and to boost the sale of season tickets. Coach A. K. Vincent, Leon C. New Powerhouse Is One Of City's Old Landmarks

The former pulpmill of the Interlake Pulp and Paper Co. immediately south of the Wisconsin tissue mill, which has just been converted into an electric power plant by its owners is one of the oldest landmarks of the city and in the early days was used as a saw mill. Its output for 15 years was sent all over the state and to neighboring states.

J. F. Rose, one of Appleton's earliest merchants and manufacturers, was one of its owners and sold practically all of its product. He is the only member that is still alive.

Mr. Rose, who was a miller by trade and had been employed in one of the large flour mills of Albany, N. Y., for 15 years, came to Appleton 54 years ago to take charge of the grocery business of his brother, C. W. Rose, who erected the building at the corner of College-ave. and Durkee-st. recently purchased by E. W. Shannon. The brother was compelled to return to his former home in New York a year after he had been in business because of the illness of his wife and disposed of his property to John P. Rose.

Mr. Rose conducted the business for a short time and then sold it to John P. Parish, with whom he engaged in the saw mill business. The firm was known as Parish & Rose and later as Rose & Heath, the latter partnership existing for 15 years. The owners of the saw mill drew their water power above the dam, but built the canal immediately west of their plant for the accommodation of other industries which they induced to locate near them.

C. OF C. VOTES IN REFERENDUM ON TARIFF LAWS

Appleton Businessmen Asked to Express Opinion on Valuation Plans

As a member of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Appleton Chamber of Commerce is asked to participate in national referendum No. 37 by recording its opinions on eight questions having to do with a revised national tariff and a new plan of placing valuation on articles imported into this country.

In substance the eight questions provide the following: 1. Legislation permitting adjustment of tariff rates within certain limits to conform to the controlling economic situation. 2. Creation of a tariff adjustment board to fix rates. 3. Protection of American industries, which benefit any considerable section of the country, from destructive foreign competition. 4. Exclusion of all merchandise, importation of which threatens to injure established American industries or which prevents such industries from being established. 5. Maintenance and encouragement of export trade consistent with reasonable protection of American industries. 6. Framing and administering tariff legislation in most discrimination by other countries against American trade. 7. Maintenance of the present system of placing valuation on articles imported by this country. 8. Postponement of tariff revision until international trade and finance conditions become stabilized.

Advocates of a revised tariff declare that tariff revision should not be postponed if America's industrial wheels are to begin turning again soon. Due to the condition of the money market and the low rate of exchange, they say, articles can be imported into this country far cheaper than American industry can make them. As a consequence American workmen are idle and have no money to buy articles made by American industries.

They allege this condition aggravates and does not alleviate the economic situation here. According to the proposed American valuation plan all imported articles would be valued in terms of American money and taxed accordingly. It is said articles are now being received which have a low foreign value because of the low rate of exchange.

NO REPRESENTATIVE AT COUNTY BOARD CONFAB

Outagamie county board will not be represented at the annual convention of the Wisconsin County Board Association which is to be held in Eau Claire, Feb. 8, because it failed to elect a representative at its meeting in November.

Highways will be one of the chief topics of discussion at the convention. Among the speakers will be Lieut. Gov. George F. Comings, Roy P. Wilcox, former senator; C. P. Norgard, state commissioner of agriculture; A. H. Hirst, state highway engineer and Miss Lilla Johnson, Eau Claire county superintendent of schools.

Appleton naval reservists will be among various Wisconsin naval units which will cruise the lakes next summer in the U. S. S. Hawk according to word received by naval officials from Lieut. R. N. Smith, commandant of the naval forces in Wisconsin.

The first cruises will be held the first and third weeks in June and will extend as far north as Manitowish, calling at the various cities along Lake Michigan. Eight cruises will be made at intervals of two weeks. Milwaukee reservists will go on the first cruise starting May 14.

of exchange and the tariff levied upon them is trivial under the present plan of valuation.

An illustration of this, it is shown that at present the German mark is only one-fourth-sixth of its normal value and consequently merchandise imported from that country pays only one-fourth-sixth the normal tariff. Estimating values in American money would remedy this situation, it is said.

BUCK APPEALS TO MEN TO ASSIST IN BOY SCOUT WORK

Personal Interest of Fathers is Needed to Make Scouting Successful

Appleton Rotarians heard Scout Executive Howard P. Buck give a comprehensive talk on scouting at their luncheon in the French room of the Sherman house Tuesday noon. Mr. Buck began with a history of the scout movement and closed by showing how Appleton needs scouting and scouting needs Appleton.

Lee C. Rasey, president, gave the address of welcome dwelling on the motto of the club, "Service above self". He made a comparison between the river and the dead sea, showing how the river gives in service while the dead sea retains all it receives. He drew a parallel to this in portraying two types of business men.

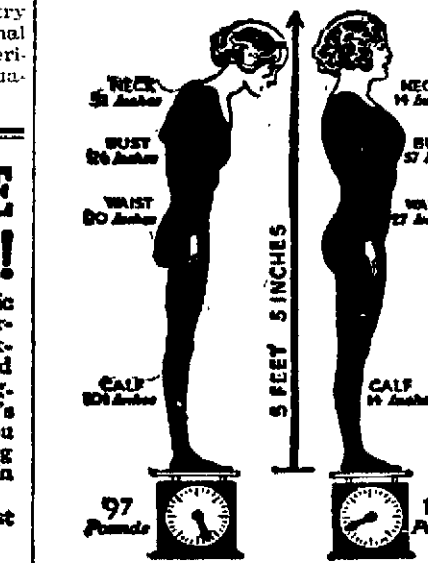

In his talk Mr. Buck said that one million and a quarter boys have been engaged in scouting since the movement began here. There are now 500,000 boys actively engaged in scouting in the United States, he said. He told of the work of local scouts in connection with the chamber of commerce, the Red Cross, the Woman's Club and the community Christmas tree.

ALL REPRESENTED
In explaining the Appleton boy scout organization he said there are now fifty members of the scout council representing all the local churches and professions. This council elects the scout executive committee which directs the organization and supervises the scoutmasters and the troops. The local organization, Mr. Buck said, was financed by donations from local manufacturers up to Jan. 1, 1921. Since that time Appleton Rotary Club has financed the organization.

Mr. Buck emphasized the need of scout leaders. It is the aim of scouting, he said, to satisfy the boy's natural desire for action and at the same time mould his habits in the proper direction. Good habits and the proper outlook on life, he pointed out, are necessary to good citizenship.

By promoting good citizenship in this way, he showed how a scout organization is vitally needed in any community. On the other hand, he

TRAIN LEADERS IN BOY SCOUT STUNTS

Organization of Scoutmasters' Class Follows Scout Troop Plan

Organizing for a 1922 program of intensive training, Appleton scoutmasters elected officers at a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening.

Organization was made in the same manner as that of a new scout troop. Leigh Hooley was elected scoutmaster, the Rev. C. Willard Cross, assistant scoutmaster, and Maurice Arveson, scribe. The Rev. Mr. Cross was elected chairman and Scout Executive Howard P. Buck were named on a program committee to map out a working schedule.

Meetings will be held the second and fourth Monday evenings in each month. The scoutmasters will first take up the requirements for tenderfoot scout. Tests will be held just as in a new troop. It is aimed to train scoutmasters in every step of scouting so that they may better lead the troop to which they are assigned.

UNCLE SAM CUTS PRICE OF STAMPED ENVELOPES

Due to decreased costs of printing and material the postoffice department has reduced the prices of stamped envelopes and those may be purchased at the new prices at Appleton postoffice.

The reduction ranges from 52 cents to $1.14 on 1,000 envelopes. Prices per thousand on the various grades are now as follows: No. 5, printed return card, $21.42; No. 8, printed return card, $22.88; No. 5, blank return card, $21.72; No. 8, blank return card, $22.48.

said a mere organization could do nothing without the actual help of the men in the community. He appealed to local business and professional men to give personal service in promoting scout work.

MERCHANTS TOLD OF THE 3 KEYS TO BIG BUSINESS

Too Many Merchants Are too Busy Selling Goods to Study Their Business

The three essential keys to a successful business administration are the keeping of records of all commercial transactions, developing of information from the records which is needed for the successful business administration and the proof of accuracy accorded by the first two keys," declared William E. Koch, specialist in modern accounting methods, in his address to the members of the Salesmanship lecture class Tuesday evening at the vocational school. This lecture was the third of a series to be given during the winter. More than 100 members were present.

"Too many business men are too busy doing business to study the fundamentals of their particular businesses and this is primarily the cause of the great number of reorganizations of the day," Mr. Koch said. Business men invest large amounts in elaborate cash registers by which to check the individual sales of the clerks but fail to check the big item of credit slips recorded by the machine and post them in their books. He said many merchants see more value in a $10 bill in the cash drawer than they do in a credit slip of the same value.

J. E. Leonhardt left Tuesday for La Crosse to attend the annual convention of Wisconsin Builders Association.

Public Is Amazed at Continued Enormous Demand for Tanlac

People All Over America Want to Know What is Behind the Phenomenal Success of This Preparation That Makes it the World's Greatest Tonic.

Day after day the question is being asked all over the United States and Canada: What is the reason for the phenomenal success of Tanlac? Why do we hear so much about it? And why do Tanlac sales keep increasing every year, when other medicines are being forgotten?

The answer is simple enough. The test of time has proven to people all over the American continent that Tanlac always produces most gratifying results and that the remarkable relief it brings seems to be more permanent than ever before believed possible.

Tens of thousands of persons, everywhere, who took it when it was first introduced six years ago, report that they are still enjoying excellent health and millions of American homes are now using Tanlac as the family medicine after first trying it out thoroughly and proclaiming it the World's Greatest Tonic.

Thousands of men and women of all ages and in all walks of life afflicted with stomach, liver and kidney disorders, some of them of long standing, as well as thousands of weak, thin, nervous men and women apparently on the verge of collapse have testified publicly that they have been fully restored to their normal health, strength and weight by its use.

Still others, who seemed fairly well, yet who suffered with indigestion, headaches, shortness of breath, dizzy spells, sour gassy stomach, coated tongue, foulness of breath, constipation, bad complexion, loss of appetite, sleeplessness at night and terrible, dejected, depressed feelings, state that they have been entirely relieved of these distressing symptoms and restored to health and happiness by taking Tanlac.

Tanlac has never been advertised as a cure-all or that it would perform unheard-of wonders. The advertising has been clean, straightforward and conservative. Actual facts and figures have been stated and stated in a true, business-like way that has commanded the confidence of all in the conservative claims set forth.

The enormous demand for Tanlac is due to merit alone, for no amount of advertising would continue to sell any article that does not possess real merit. Unless full value underlays the article advertised, the advertising will ultimately fail of its own weight. "You can fool some of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

Tanlac has been well advertised, it is true, but such a large and rapidly growing demand could not be brought about by advertising alone. It is what the people themselves say that counts. One bottle of Tanlac is sold in a neighborhood through advertising, but ten more are sold in that same community as a result of the sale of that first bottle and that is why Tanlac has succeeded. People are always willing to talk about their ailments, but they are more than glad to tell others of the medicine that helped them. It is something they could not keep to themselves if they tried, for the impulse to sympathize with your fellow-man and want to help him is one of the strongest, as well as one of the biggest, things in human nature.

That is the reason why the people of every section of the United States and Canada, have become so great a fan of Tanlac as the World's Greatest Tonic. And that is the reason why the demand for this remarkable medicine has grown to such proportions that it is almost impossible to keep dealers supplied.

Tanlac is sold in Appleton by Voigt Drug Co. and by all leading druggists everywhere.

THE SENIORITY RULE

The New York Herald, perhaps the leading Republican newspaper of the east, is besieging the administration for abolition of the rule of seniority in congress. It has been brought to this political view by the eminence of Senator McCumber's succession to the chairmanship of the senate finance committee, which will pass to him under the rule of seniority by the death of Senator Penrose. The Herald is very evidently actuated in this attitude by hostility to the growing power of the so-called agricultural bloc in congress, of which Mr. McCumber may be said to be a member. A serious conflict in politics and legislation has arisen between the agrarian representatives and their interests in the west and the industrial and financial interests of the east. It threatens to grow in intensity, and already it has marked a disintegration in party lines on some important issues.

The chairmanship of the senate finance committee is the most powerful hold in either branch of congress. It has reposed in but few hands over a long period of years and it has been the insignia of great party influence even preceding the days of Senator Aldrich. While theoretically the house ways and means committee originates tariff and revenue legislation, in reality the prerogative has passed to the senate finance committee, which in recent years drafts its own tariff and tax measures and settles the controversy with the house by conference. It is clear, therefore, that the passing of the chairmanship of the senate finance committee from the citadel of financial and industrial forces of the east to the agrarian stronghold of the west is a matter of vital concern to congress, to the nation and to politics.

So far as the principle is concerned, the rule of seniority has been one of the greatest obstacles to the recognition of ability and public service that has ever arisen in congress. In the vast majority of instances men must serve in either branch for many years before they attain positions of influence, because real influence is confined to the leading committees and membership and promotion in them goes by seniority. As a result many men of exceptional talent after serving a short time have abandoned legislative careers in disappointment and disgust. At the same time others who stick to their posts are effectually smothered in their efforts and capacity to render real public service. Finally, the rule of seniority has elevated men of distinct mediocrity to positions of great power, even controlling power, at heavy cost to the public. Both E. Kitchin and Fordney are examples of this result in the house, and there are plenty of instances in both the house and senate for that matter.

The west cannot of course agree with the east in the latter's assumption of right to dominate the leadership of the senate in the chairmanship of such committees as the finance committee. Mr. McCumber is a man of quite as much ability as the late Senator Penrose and because he happens to represent agrarian rather than industrial constituents is no reason why he should be disqualified. But over and above the question of what interest or what group should control the committees and the leadership of congress, the rule of seniority is itself the real issue. Its abolishment might in some instances promote political machinations, but in the main we believe it would put a premium on ability and public service.

GRIFFITH AT THE HEAD OF IRELAND

The election of Arthur Griffith as president of the dail circuit, pending reorganization of the government under the charter from Great Britain which is to authorize an Irish Free state, was the logical step for the dail to take following de Valera's resignation. The reelection of de Valera, as proposed as voted down, would have compromised the position of the dail to say the least. The former president had shown no real disposition to accept the new order, and continued to enunciate vagaries about the existence of a republic and the bad faith of Great Britain in attempting to substitute something else for it. He also seems to be impressed with the idea that the dail has not legally acted on the treaty and that by some subterfuge it can be repudiated.

In the closing days of the historic events in Dublin de Valera proved himself a disappointment. Consumed with abstraction he failed to rise to meet the exigencies or the opportunities of the situation as a practical statesman. Ever since the dail and de Valera accepted negotiations with Great Britain the Irish republic has in effect been dead. De Valera may not have realized this, but it was apparent to the waiting and expectant world.

In certain ways de Valera did a great work for Ireland, but not the work of either Griffith or Collins. Somehow, there was something intangible about him which spoke of unreliability, while his headstrong disposition made him a difficult man to work with for the achievement of practical ends or practical ideals. When it came to the crisis he was not the man for the hour. The transition to the new regime will be made in an orderly manner, de Valera to the contrary notwithstanding. The Irish Free State has the people back of it, a fact of which it seems de Valera does not seem to be conscious.

MANUFACTURERS CANNOT FIX RETAIL PRICE

Unusual importance attaches to the decision of the United States supreme court in what is known as the Beech Nut case that manufacturers cannot undertake to fix retail prices. In connection with the standardization of products and trade names, manufacturers of numerous articles, large and small, have undertaken to set the resale prices with the object of maintaining uniformity of prices everywhere. The opinion of the court was that measures applied against retailers to force them to uphold the manufacturer's price constitute stifling of competition and restraint of trade. The ruling will have the effect of vitalizing orders of the Federal Trade commission.

While there are apparent benefits to the standardization of prices, it seems to be clear that, in many instances, it results in maintaining prices that are too high and it is, therefore, inimical to public interest. The consequences to the public are evident in connection with other goods than food-stuffs. There is, as everybody has at times noted, price uniformity on products of the same kind made by different manufacturers, denoting tacit understandings as to conditions of resale.

If the manufacturer were in all cases permitted to fix the ultimate selling price it is obvious that the consumer would in many instances pay a premium for inferior commodities, for inefficiency and for waste and extravagance. It might be argued that the superior product will sell on its merits regardless of price but that is not always the case. The commodity which is produced the cheapest, or which possesses the greatest merit, price taken into consideration, is the one that should sell. Furthermore, a legal recognition of the right to control the selling price regardless of any and all considerations would necessarily carry with it an arbitrary power to fix an excessive price and to secretly collaborate with other producers for purposes of extortion.

There might be a question as to whether an understanding between competing manufacturers regarding prices would, with actual merchandising rivalry, be either restraint of trade or suppression of competition, but it certainly would be regarded as antagonistic to the public welfare. The supreme court's decision in the resale price case may be accepted as the established judicial policy, and it means that in some respects there must be radical changes in mercantile methods. Some manufacturers may not regard the decision with favor, but it is to be looked upon as decidedly in the interests of the public. Where a producer actually parts from the ownership and possession of a commodity his control of future disposition should, and by the decision of the supreme court does, cease.

THE SLENDER SEX

Out of the last 500 readers who have asked me to tell them how to reduce, 228 mentioned what they wished to reduce and the rest left that little detail vague. Out of the 228 who explained that they wished to reduce excess weight there were no less than 35 who had no excess weight to reduce—and of course these were all members of the—as one becomes more convinced every day—discontented sex.

Now, why in the name of all that is healthful and easy to envisage, as we highbrows say, is the discontented sex so determined to become skinnier? Is it the trend of fashion. A recent tabulation of the nutritional state of young women in a large college showed that a majority of them were underweight. Is it the hustle and bustle of the times?

The bustle was discarded 40 years ago. Mutton sleeves went out along about 1897. And now it really begins to look as the busts are doomed and the skinny sex in the future is going to be just straight lines and angles. That may be all very artistic in a poster or a fashion plate, but in real life it is painful to contemplate.

A woman should weigh two pounds for every inch of stature and about 5 per cent besides, for health and beauty. A reasonable amount of fat gives a softness or roundness to the feminine form, which is still as essential as ever for beauty; this fat also gives a woman's complexion the clearness and attractiveness for which the well nourished woman has always been envied by her thin sisters, and finally it keeps her nice and warm, for a layer of fat under the skin is a better insulator than any kind of clothing. It is the subconscious fat which women naturally have in more generous quantity than men, that explains how women can go about with their chests exposed when men shiver even with their shirts and collars and sweaters and cravats and mufflers and maybe their chest protectors on.

A woman with not more than 10 per cent excess weight is a happier, better natured, warmer, sweeter, stronger, handomer and longer lived person than the woman who is underweight.

No woman who is not more than 10 per cent overweight should ever permit herself to be beguiled into any kind of reduction regimen. No man who is not more than 10 per cent overweight has ever been known to admit he would like to reduce. But the once fair enough sex is in danger of succumbing to this insane furor to be slender and something should be done to call the flighty ones back to the status quo. It took the time of the crown's glory, but the bodied hair craze has about burnt itself out now and, well, I don't know whether it is hoped by anybody else, but I do hope this sudden predilection for attenuation will stop while there is still something left for a woman to hang her clothes on.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

No Cause to Worry

I was confined three weeks. All was well until now, when I find I have quite lost my appetite. Please answer. (Mrs. B. E.)

Answer—Just take care of your general health and hygiene and the appetite will come home by and by. Take no home brew if you mean to nurse the baby.

Apartments Used by Tuberculous

I rented two rooms to a man and his wife. The man was sick, but not ill they had been in the room for a week and I was told the sickness was tuberculosis of the bones. They never aired their rooms. We spent one or two evenings with them. They seemed so lonesome. Is there danger for us? Will it endanger any one else to occupy those rooms later? (Mrs. S. M. H.)

Answer—No danger. As for future occupancy of the rooms, rest assured that no matter what form of tuberculosis the former tenant may have had, an ordinary airing of the rooms with soap and water and renovating with paper or paint if that appears necessary only, will make them perfectly safe.

Air at Night vs. Night Air

Won't you please write an article soon on the importance of fresh air in the bedroom at night, sick or well? You'd be surprised at the vast number of people hereabouts who think fresh air is unnecessary at night when winter comes. My daughter's night has whooping cough—is no fresh air necessary at night in such a case? (Mr. D. A.)

Answer—Fresh air is cool or cold air that moves. Foul air is warmish air that scarcely dares to move. Light, warm coverings, and warm nights or pajamas, but cool or cold air to breathe, will insure more restful and wholesome sleep at any time of year when cold air is to be had. In whooping cough a constant supply of fresh air is of vital importance as an aid to recovery. The only night air that is injured anybody's health was stagnant, close, foul, locked in air.

Tonsils and Ears

Boy nine years old running ear health below par discharge foul very large tonsils. One doctor advised removal of the tonsils as essential to overcome ear trouble. Another said the boy will outgrow it We want to avoid the expense and annoyance of the operation. (J. C.)

Answer A "doctor" who tells a parent a child will outgrow such trouble ought to have a leather medal. Most such ear troubles in children are secondary to trouble in the nose or throat, and if you value that boy's health and his life you will have the tonsils out without delaying too long. Diseased tonsils never do anybody any good.

A Voice from the Dim Past

Should windows be kept on foggy, damp nights? I have heard that damp nights are healthful and that windows should be kept closed on such nights.—(J. E. P.)

Answer—The air on such nights is rather cleaner or purer than ordinarily.

Daily Editorial Digest

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

Trailing the Retail Profiteer

Some editors doubt if the retail profiteer really exists; others think he is not nearly so bad as painted; and still others believe if he does exist and is apprehended there is nothing that can be done about it; but all are agreed that the Attorney General is rendering a service to the public and to the conscientious retailer in his effort to clear up the mystery of the margin between wholesale and retail prices.

It is to be hoped," says the RICHMOND TIMES-DISPATCH (Dem.) "that in this undertaking Attorney-General Daugherty is not making a mere gesture, as did his predecessor in a similar undertaking," and the NEWARK NEWS (Ind.) admits "the combined effects of a war shortage and an unexampled buying capacity among our people."

Things are quite different now. Especially as the retail market does not seem to have fully liquidated in some lines and as the industrial depression has not been overcome, the conditions favor price reduction unless upheld by combination.

As to these combinations of retailers, which the BOSTON TRANSCRIPT (Ind. Rep.) characterizes as "men who sell schemes to defeat the laws of the country by forming associations in which distortion is disguised as competition," the BROOKLYN EAGLE (Ind. Dem.) believes that

"Every housewife in America is interested in the news that with a free hand granted by the principle of the Supreme Court's decision in the Harwood combination case, Attorney-General Daugherty is going after the retail profiteers in foods, clothes and fuel."

The grocers' associations, the butchers' associations are not so compactly organized or so energetically run as was the Hetrick bid-pooling system, but their principle is precisely the same. Keeping prices up is what "mutual benefit" means to them.

While granting that "the reasons for this situation doubtless are several," the WASHINGTON POST (Ind.) focuses on the suspicion that in some instances at least it is due to price-fixing combinations.

The individual retailer, in the opinion of the papers that go into this phase of the problem, is the least of all to blame for the prices he charges and gets. The PASSAIC HERALD (Ind.) believes that "consumers are partly to blame for the high cost of living," since "credit and cost of service are the principal items in high retail prices" and "the next item of importance is the overhead. It naturally follows that if two, three or four groceries are maintained in an average residential neighborhood, the public has to pay for services that it might get cheaper and better from one store." The ARIZONA REPUBLICAN (Ind.) believes that the charge of "unconscionable" levied by the Attorney General against retail prices on what the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL (Dem.) calls "the Big Four when prices are discussed"—food, fuel, shoes and clothing—is founded on a "superficial view."

"There has been some profiteering in all lines is not to be doubted," but the REPUBLICAN does not think it has been "general." The BOSTON POST (Ind. Dem.) finds "one flaw in the Daugherty process, and that is that the comparison is to be between the production costs of the commodities and the prices in the public knowledge that is, the prices in the retail stores and markets."

Unless we are told what the retailer pays, the vast "in between," the public may be very unfair in its judgment of its storemen. The NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE (Ind. Dem.) thinks that while the retailer, who, "because he, rather than the public, knows the cost of the goods, becomes the natural victim of profiteering charges," will nevertheless profit by an investigation which "if impartial, will give him the chance to set himself right with his own customers and his own community."

"The public does not stop to think," the EL PASO TIMES (Dem.) says, in criticism of the dealer, "that prices of production underwent tremendous changes within a few years. If the baker could cut his wages, overhead and so on in an equal ratio with the flour reduction, he would have no difficulty in making a sharp reduction in bread prices," thought on the other hand, the ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH (Ind.) observes that bread price cuts in the retail field have already been made, "enough to indicate what reductions can be made without the sacrifice of a normal profit," and "where such reductions have not been made there is ground for the suspicion of agreement through the open price list or such devices as an 'association' of dealers."

If Attorney-General Daugherty is looking for profiteers, as he announces so loudly," demands the BRIDGEPORT POST (Ind.), "let him begin by searching those great combinations which control basic commodities, such as coal, iron and steel. If he fails to find profiteering here, what is the use of his campaign, now can he expect to find profiteering where there is the starkest competition?"

As to measures for correcting profiteering, the HARTFORD TIMES (Dem.) sees the only remedy in "bringing suits under the anti-trust law." The PHILADELPHIA TRIBUNE (Dem.) deplores the "retail law" in law: "We know in general what profiteering is and we detect it. But we do not know of any enforceable law, State or Federal, which establishes prices in time of peace or determines what is a fair margin of profit, and provides appropriate punishment for violation."

But everything is not all that bad. There is a view to showing the relation—or lack of relation—between the wholesale and retail prices should be a great help in bringing recalcitrant retailers of foodstuffs to time" is the opinion of the BUFFALO EXPRESS

(Ind. Rep.) That "there is a political aspect to this matter which the country should understand and keep in mind" is observed by the LINCOLN (Neb.) STATE JOURNAL (Ind.). "We do not say that the Attorney General is acting with a view to tariff schedules. We only say that an effort to load the onus for high prices upon the retailers fits into the tariff situation. Just to take it from the retailer to give to the manufacturer will not answer."

Washington and Land Armaments

Milan—Why the Washington Conference did not and could not solve the question of land disarmament is set forth by the eminent historian Guglielmo Ferrero in the SECOLO of this city:

"The discussion at Washington on military armaments quickly came to an end," he says, "in spite of the efforts of the British and Italian delegations. It is not really surprising, for armaments and the peace treaties go hand in hand in Europe. Certain very important parts of the treaties made in 1919 and 1920 are only upheld because they are enforced by millions of bayonets. Hungary and Bulgaria only keep quiet because they are held by a circle of iron. The Sevres treaty is a 'scrap of paper' because the Entente has not the necessary means of enforcing it. It is a constant challenge to the French army and at the same time the efforts of the protectorate of the Versailles treaty on Germany."

"Brand drew a picture of Germany at the Conference, which on the whole is true. Germany is still full of hatred for her conquerors, and today she is impatient, her hatred is but a silent challenge at least to those who are her immediate neighbors. Thus it is probable that if France were to partially disarm it would give courage to this hatred. But if this is France's official argument, an impartial observer must go further and ask for what reason Germany has such a need of peace-would, at the bottom of her heart, desire war again. The reason is clear. Simply because the Versailles treaty contains much humiliating conditions that no great power would ever accept them, even though obliged to submit to them for some time. Posterity will find it inconceivable that statesmen—or those who called themselves such—should have imagined they could make Germany into a European Morocco, without condemning Europe to perpetual war, either active or passive."

"No congress which will not, or dares not, consider the whole of Europe in its entirety can do anything else but just touch on the armament question. Thus we must not expect from the Washington conference more than it is able to give. That the Conference managed partially to solve the question of naval armaments is enough for us to be able to regard it as the first star which shines in the darkness of the night and to hope that it is but the beginning of better times. It will not only bring back confidence to the world which has been despairing, but a first agreement made, and solution found, will engender others."

"Thanks to this law of solidarity," concludes the writer, "which is uniting today so many different things in the world, when one thing will be put at such a disadvantage as will have to be put straight in their turn, and much less effort will be needed for this to happen. Events themselves will show the way which great minds are looking for in vain because only a small number of them succeed in looking ahead."

Tennis at Night

By a new system of illumination, tennis courts may be made available to players every night in the year, declares a writer in the LONDON OBSERVER. Describing the new method of lighting, and its effects and possibilities, the writer says:

"The apparatus was not more than temporary, but even so the results were sufficient to justify the adherent conclusion that here we have something with a big future in improving the conditions of play. It should revolutionize the conditions in this way—From October to April the business man cannot get a game except at week-ends, he is deprived of his favorite exercise, and his health suffers. Moreover, the courts are so congested at week-ends. But now, play will be possible and enjoyable every night of the year, when fine, from sunset until (if you wish) sunrise."

"Now, as to the lighting: it is the invention of a clever person who has a thorough knowledge of optics. Its method is simple, diametrically opposed to those previously tried. The court is evenly illuminated with a soft, white light. Shadows are absent. A dirty ball, curiously enough, looks snow-white. I was able to see the ball as perfectly as in daylight in any part of the court. If anything, the higher the ball the better I saw it. Not only this, but everything was fully visible, including the floor. The sky and the outer landscape framed by the backstop was black. Now this arrangement is very pleasant and hot only assailed visibility, but gave the feeling of playing in a covered court."

"In a way the conditions are better than in daylight. The light has many degrees of visibility, also has many grades of color, varying with sun-power. Further, no two sides of a court, when the sun is out, are equal as regards light. Here both the sides are equal."

MATT SCHMIDT & SON

"Two Floors of Good Things to Wear."

Heroine Of The Surf

London—Fifty years of battling against howling winter winds and roaring tempestuous seas, fitful summer squalls and oppressive sea-side heat, this is the record achieved in the British life saving service not by a man, but a woman, now seventy years old, whose record sets forth that since 1874 she has not missed a single launching of the lifeboat at Cresswell. Thrilling stories of her bravery were told, says the LONDON CHRONICLE, when Mrs. Margaret Brown was awarded a gold brooch and a record of the Lifeboat Institution in honor of her unusual career. In spite of her years, she still lends a ready and helping hand to the life-saving crew, says the paper.

Tales of her heroism are recounted by the scores, but the most adventurous battle with the sea waged and won by this woman volunteer helper of the seamen who go down to the sea in boats, occurred during a terrific gale in 1876, according to the records.

"The occasion was the wreck of a Swedish steamer. The lifeboat was launched but was driven back again by the fury of the sea, and it was hopeless to attempt a second launching.

"Some of the shipwrecked sailors were seen struggling in the breakers and Margaret Brown, standing neck-deep in water, at the head of a living chain of women, succeeded in making many rescues.

"As there were other sailors still clinging to the wreck, it was decided to send for the rocket apparatus, stationed five miles along the coast.

"Volunteers were called for—Margaret Brown and two girls started out to make the journey. So violent was the wind that it was impossible to fight against it across the moor, and the women had to make their way along the shore.

Several times they were nearly swept away by the waves breaking among the rocks, and their clothes were nearly torn from their backs. The two younger women were so battered and bruised that they had to give up, and Margaret Brown went on alone.

"She reached the station in an exhausted condition, but in time to send the rocket apparatus to Cresswell, when the other sailors from the wreck were safely brought to land."

THE QUESTION BOX

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medicinal, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. What is meant by capital ships? N. D.

A. The Navy Department says that this term is more or less elastic and refers to the larger and more modern naval vessels.

Q. Is there any place in the universe that light does not penetrate? E. M. S.

A. The Naval Observatory says that no region of space is known to astronomy so remote that light does not penetrate it.

Q. What is the original root word from which the word "intoxicating" is derived? E. T. T.

A. The word "intoxicating" is derived from Latin "intoxicare" which is a combination of "in" and "toxicum," the latter being the poison in which arrows were dipped.

Q. What kind of nuts are used in pralines? C. I. C.

A. Pralines are confections made of nut kernels, usually of almonds, roasted in boiling sugar until brown and crisp. In this country, pralines usually contain pecan meats.

Q. How fast do homing pigeons fly? R. D.

A. The flight of the homing pigeon is steady, direct, and rapid, but the rate of speed has been exaggerated and is now known to be on the average only about 30 miles an hour.

Q. What state leads in manufacturing establishments? M. McP.

A. New York leads in number of manufacturing establishments, having 49,333, according to the preliminary summary of the Census Bureau. Pennsylvania is second with 27,974.

Pennsylvania, however, leads in amount of capital invested in such concerns, with a total of $6,226,550,000, New York ranking second with an investment of $5,993,763,000.

Q. What is the origin of the word "mother"? K. L. C.

A. Sanskrit contained the word matr; Latin, mater; German, moder; Middle English, mother, modern English, mother.

Q. Please give a recipe for sponge cake? J. D. F.

A. Separate the whites and yolks of six eggs. Beat the yolks to a cream and add two teaspoons of sifted sugar, beating again from five to ten minutes, then add two table-spoonsful of milk or water, a pinch of salt and flavoring. Now add parts of the beaten whites; then two cups of flour in which you have sifted two teaspoonfuls of baking powder; mix gradually into the above ingredients stirring slowly and lightly, only enough to mix them well; lastly add the remainder of the whites of the eggs. Line the tins with buttered paper and fill two-thirds full.

Q. Why are Seidlitz powders so named?

A. Seidlitz powders are so called because their composition resembles that of the natural water of Seidlitz village in Bohemia.

Q. How are trees classed in regard to their ability to produce wood for certain purposes? J. D.

A. The trees that will produce wood for use as lumber in the shortest time are white pine, red pine, ash and basswood; for pulp, Norway spruce, poplar, basswood and larch; excelsior bolts, basswood, poplar and willow; larch, red oak, jack and red pine; oak, jack pine and catalpa trees; larch, red oak, jack pine and red pine.

Q. Since women rode horses astride in early times, why was the side-saddle invented? A. T. R.

A. It is said that the side-saddle was introduced in England in the fourteenth century for the use of a queen who was deformed and could not ride astride. The fashion set by royalty was followed by others, until almost all women of western countries were using the side-saddle.

Q. What can be done to land that has been impoverished by constant planting of pineapples? J. O. G.

A. The Department of Agriculture says that a practical method of restoring such land is the sowing of Natal grass for two years or more. This will starve out the nematodes which cause wilt and will add the necessary humus to the soil.

Q. Who wrote "Immodest words admit of no defense. For want of decency is want of sense"? F. O. R.

A. This couplet is often attributed to Pope, but it occurs in the "Essay on Translated Verse" by Lord Roscommon.

Q. Is the flesh of fish about like that of animals? C. W.

A. The Bureau of Fisheries says that fish has about the same composition as meat, possibly a

"Flapper Contest" Ends In Draw With Both Sides Ready To Keep Up Battle

Men and Women Take Fall Out of Each Other and Cover Field Thoroughly—Unpublished Letters Like Those That Have Been Printed

Many more letters have come to the contest editor of the Post-Crescent in regard to the present social conditions which surround people, but the arguments used in these letters are all practically the same as those used in other letters. The arguments have been about fifty-fifty, some writers thinking well of the young men and others, speaking for the young women rather than the young men.

Some of the best arguments which have been brought out by the writers are those which show that for every young man who is not fit to marry the most high minded young lady, there is a girl in the dance halls waiting for him. Several writers have said that lack of religion and religious training are bringing down the moral tone of the young people. One recent contributor suggested that the contest has been unfair to the earnest young men and young women because it was the type from the curb and cabaret which was described.

NERVOUS AND HALF-SICK WOMEN

These Letters Recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will Interest You

For Your Own Good Please Read Them

Youngtown, Ohio.—"Last fall I began to feel mean and my back hurt me and I could hardly do my little bit of housework. I was played out when I would just sweep one room and would have to rest. I would have to put a cushion behind me when I would sit down and at night I could not sleep unless I had something under my back. I had awful cramps every month and was just nearly all in. Finally my husband said to me one day, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine?' and I said, 'I am willing to take anything if I could get well again.' So I took one bottle and the second one and felt better and the neighbors asked me what I was doing and said, 'Surely it must be doing you good all right.' I have just finished my eighth bottle and I cannot express to you how I feel, the way I would like to. If you can use this letter you are welcome to it and if any woman does not believe what I have written to be true, she can write to me and I will describe my condition to her as I have to you."

—Mrs. ELMER HEASLEY, 141 S. Jackson St., Youngtown, Ohio.

"I was very nervous and run-down," writes Mrs. L. E. Wise of 706 Louisa St., New Orleans, La.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Aliments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

To do this have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

It is true as one or two correspondents said that you cannot make the term "modern young men" and "modern young women" fit all the young men and all the young women of today. The tendency is to pick out those who are outstandingly modern and point to them as the type which represents all modern young people. It is true that ten years ago only the girls known as "flappers" went to public dances and resorts, but today daughters of the "best" families may be found at any of a number of places which would have been tabooed by her family a short time ago.

The ready response with which the call for letters was met by Post-Crescent readers shows that people even the young people themselves are thinking about present day conditions. Many of them are trying to work out their solutions of their problems and the problems of others, but they have not been able to come to any conclusion.

RAP CIGARETS
One of the remarkable phases which the contest brought out was the almost constant reference to the cigarette smoking habits of the young men in the letters of the women. The young men also had much to say about the powdering and rouging habits of the women, young and not so young. These arguments are always used in opposition to each other.

The contest editor feels that the field of discussion in regard to both the young men and the young women has been pretty well covered. If your letter has not been published, it was for lack of space when it was received. The letters which remain unpublished are written in the same vein as those which have made the interesting series of articles possible and regrets to stop the letters which have proved valuable in bringing the ideas of the readers to the notice of others. No more letters on the subject treated from the standpoint of the fitness for modern young people for marriage will be used.

SCHOOL LAWS MUST APPLY IN INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS

Madison—Girls in the state industrial school may be put to work outside of the institution before they reach the age of 18, if their educational work complies with that required by law, Attorney General William J. Morgan told the state board of control in an opinion given to N. J. Tappin, secretary of the board.

The same amount of education at least must be given to the wards of the state, as is provided by statute for the other children of the state, Morgan's opinion declared.

CAN'T BE TRIANTS

"It would be an anomaly to say that the board of control might put a child out to work without regard to the compulsory education law, since in many cases the result would be to permit the board to do for the child just the thing for which the child was judged delinquent; that is, being truant from school," the opinion said.

Emphasizing the instructional functions of the girls' industrial school, Morgan pointed out that the institution was defined by the law creating it as "a place of confinement and instruction."

J. N. TITTEMORE MAY TRY FOR BOB'S SEAT IN SENATE

Politicians in Milwaukee Hear That Omro Man Is Ready for Battle

J. N. Tittmore of Omro, well known in Appleton, may be a candidate for United States senator to succeed Robert M. LaFollette. That is the gossip on the political rattle of Milwaukee where politicians have been gathering in droves to sound out the feeling of the state's voters. Mr. Tittmore has had considerable experience as a candidate, having made two campaigns for election as governor and serving three terms as president of the Wisconsin Union of the American Society of Equity.

Men with strong leanings for political gossip don't have to go to Milwaukee to get in on the latest "dope," however. There is plenty of it floating around Appleton but much of it is second hand relayed from the political headquarters in Milwaukee and Madison.

FIRST BIG MEETING

One of the biggest political meetings scheduled in the state thus far is the confab of the Committee of 44 which has for its purpose the consolidation of all anti-La Follette-Nonpartisan league republican factions into a united front with a single ticket for state offices, is to settle the question of Mr. Tittmore's candidacy. Tittmore is not a candidate—but he is willing to be.

At least, so it is said in Milwaukee. This state convention of the Committee of 44 is, according to the latest "dope," scheduled for the last week in March or the first week in April. Just now the information has it that the organization work of the committee is progressing slowly. However, a drive is to be put under way shortly for the county gatherings at which delegates will be elected for the state conference.

JOB FOR SOLDIER

In these days of unemployment and auction sales of service men for employment purposes, it is of interest to note an opening for a veteran of good moral habits and an honorable discharge. The Committee of 44 is understood as being in need of a good reliable service man for a candidate for one of the state offices.

The Committee of 44 is not the only faction that feels the need of a uniform. The La Follette-Nonpartisans are also in the field. There is one opening on their slate—the post of attorney general—and reliable information has it that "Bob" has sent out a call for a good soldier.

At the latest count this is the list of possible candidates for governor: William J. Morgan, Alvin Peterson, Melvin Hull, Otto Bosshard.

WICOM IS WILLING

Roy Wilcox is willing to run, it is said, if he is called. Mr. Wilcox, according to the information, is inclined to prefer to wait two more years. But if he is called for by the convention of the 44's the Eau Claire man will "up and at it."

The Nonpartisan league is showing signs of spring resuscitation. Organization work is being pushed into counties that have not been worked. The league is organized in 46 counties.

Incidentally this organization drive is accompanied by a slight reduction in price, the $18 membership fee having been cut to $12.

Notice to Stockholders!

The annual meeting of the Building and Loan association will be held Jan. 12th, 1922 at 7 o'clock at the city hall. Members please attend.

MUST STRENGTHEN FARMER POSITION

Chamber of Commerce Forum
Speaker Will Express
Hope for Tiller

Hope for the farmer will be expressed in the address to be given Thursday evening at the chamber of commerce forum dinner by H. C. Baldwin of Babson's statistical organization who speaks on "The Business Outlook for 1922."

"There is too great a spread between the prices of farm products and the prices the farmer must pay for the goods he actually needs," Mr. Baldwin said. "Something must and will be done this year to strengthen the position of the farmer for he is still the backbone of all trade activity and controls 50 per cent of the buying power."

Mr. Baldwin makes the following predictions for this year: There will be very little trouble in labor circles this year; house building will increase rapidly and rents will be lower by next fall; real estate prices will drop. However, the return to normalcy will still take a considerable period, Mr. Baldwin warns.

LAWRENCE HELPS RADIUM CAMPAIGN

Lawrence college is one of four institutions in Wisconsin which are conducting an educational campaign to develop in the public an understanding of radium and its uses by means of an exhibit of radium, instruments for its use and pictures describing its derivation. The state university, Milwaukee Public Museum and Ripon college are also showing this exhibit.

Radium displayed in this exhibit was secured from the mines of this country which is the world's largest producer of radium. The carnotite bar in the exhibit came from the Utah dark mines of Colorado and Utah. The exhibits explain how radium is used in making a luminous material which is applied to objects to make them luminous in the dark. It also tells how radium is used to treat cancer.

Heads Eastern School

Dr. Katharine Lummis, head of the department of Latin at Sweet Briar college, Washington, D. C. has been appointed dean of the college. Dr. Lummis earned her doctorate of philosophy at Stanford university. She is a daughter of Dr. Lummis, for many years a member of the faculty of Lawrence college.

College Uses Movies For History Instruction

A demonstration of teaching history by moving pictures of charts and maps was given at the old chapel in Main hall at 4:30 and 8:30 Monday when films from the Visual Education society of Chicago were shown. A large attendance of students and faculty members watched the screen with great interest, while the actual progress of the French and English in settling America and the campaigns in the French and Indian war were shown. The presentation is made entirely by means of charts and maps upon which routes are traced by means of moving arrows.

The demonstration was put on by the history and commerce departments under the direction of Dr. J. B. McHarg and Prof. Clarence Prim, who formerly was connected with the Visual Education society. The films were designed for use in high school, but Dr. MacHarg considers them of great value in history review.

Another set of films entitled "Breaking Through the Appalachian Barrier," "Settling the Ohio," and "The Louisiana Purchase and the Lewis and Clark Expeditions" will be shown in the old chapel at 4:30 and 8 o'clock on Wednesday to which friends of the history and commerce departments of the college are invited. Dr. MacHarg cautions those who plan on attending that the performance is not a movie but a means of teaching history by the use of films. The two departments plan to purchase the machine which they are now using for permanent use.

BANQUET TO OPEN WILSON CAMPAIGN

First Gun of Effort to Raise
County's Quota to be Fired
January 16

The informal campaign to raise Outagamie county's quota of $600 for the Wilson foundation will open with a luncheon in the French room of the Sherman house at noon on Monday, Jan. 16, when the "Wilson hour" will be observed. A brief program will be presented.

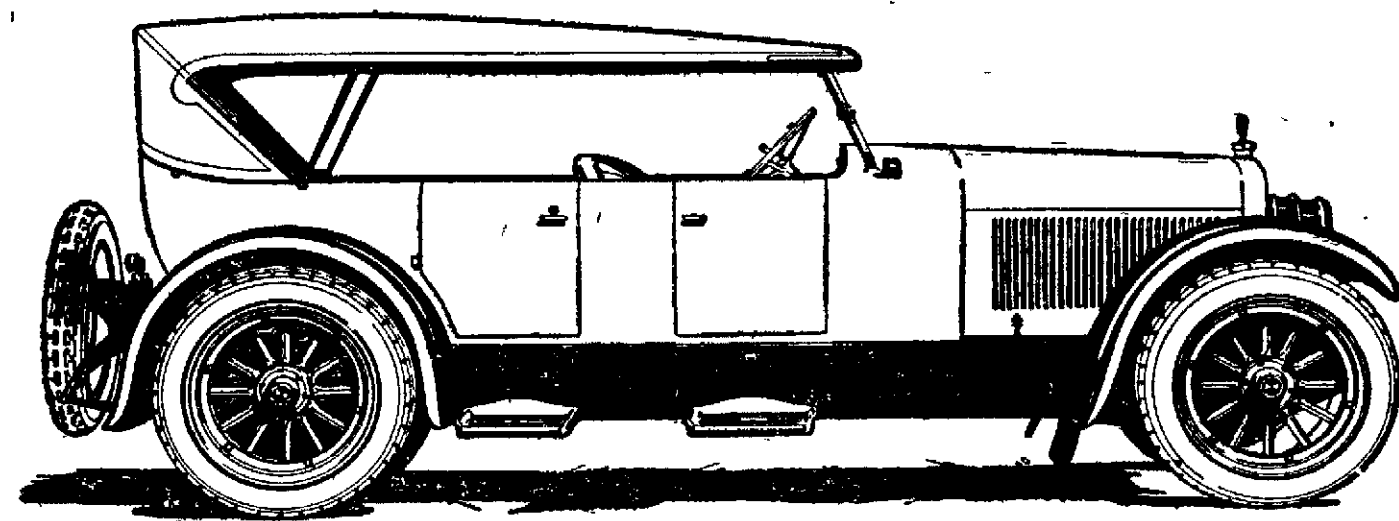

This meeting is to be strictly non-political, it was said. The Wilson fund is to be used to reward men and women who are outstanding contributors to the advancement of American democracy and prizes will be awarded in much the same fashion as the Nobel fund now is distributed.

Those who wish to attend the dinner are expected to make their reservations with Stephen D. Balliet, chairman of the county committee. Mrs. D. O. Kinsman, Appleton, is state chairman of the women's committee for the fund.

Foody Loose Game
St. Peter Lutheran church basketball team of Fond du Lac dropped its opening game Monday evening at the Fountain city to the fast New London five, 24 to 16 in the Fox River Valley Lutheran basketball league race. The game was well played and clean.

Here is the Amazing New CHANDLER SIX It Scraps Previous Motor Car Values!

All That You Seek in a Motor Car is Here

Durability

The rugged, indestructible, noiseless new rear axle, with rigidly mounted differential and oversize taper roller bearings, the deep channelled frame, soundly bound cross members and staunchly engineered motor base mean herculean strength and sturdiness.

Safety

It has reserve power, service brakes that take hold at a touch, emergency brake on transmission that minimizes side skidding, big non-skid cord tires on all four wheels. It is low, hugs the road and is absolutely stable on the short turns.

Economy

The astonishingly low price of this Chandler and the wonderful gasoline, oil, tire and service economy meet the nation-wide demand for lower cost.

Comfort

The long, underslung rear spring suspension of the new Chandler Six gives superlative riding comfort. The wide, low, relaxed seats and backs have unusually deep springs and soft, yielding cushions.

Smartness and Beauty

The smart style and luxury of the Chandler set new standards. The deep, nicked radiator, the smart aluminum steps, the rigid, full-moulded fenders with leather splashes, the fine upholstery of genuine hand buffed leather, the big barrel-type head-lamps, the nicked windshield, are only a few of the distinctively stylish touches of this Chandler.

Silence

Completely silent operation marks the Chandler Six. The entire chassis is exceptionally clean and free from movable rods and parts. The large rear axle revolves silently on big roller bearings and the differential gears produce no sound. Camshaft, magneto and water pump are driven by silent chain.

Power

Chandler's marvelous motor with added refinements, develops astonishing power and flexibility. Magneto ignition is positive and never failing.

In Line With a Nation's Demand for Economy

IN this new car Chandler engineers have gone far beyond current practice in a score of ways and have introduced far-reaching betterments in chassis and body design.

Individually important for better service, increased riding comfort, longer life and greater strength and safety—these improvements combined have produced an epoch-making car.

Such chassis construction, such body design, such care in detail and appointments have never been encountered except in the very highest priced cars.

This new Chandler Six is a smart, luxurious car—as distinctive in every way as if it were custom-built.

Style as manifested in this latest Chandler is a subtle achievement that defies expression. It is newness with beauty, sturdiness with grace, power with lightness and poise. It is individual character—but not mere novelty nor eccentricity.

In performance this new car fulfills every promise of its splendid appearance. The marvelous motor, brought to the highest efficiency, will increase the fame of its 100,000 predecessors.

Only long experience in motor car building, backed by financial strength and unusual buying power, make possible this latest Chandler at so remarkably low a price.

You will want to see this wonderful car—the motor car sensation of 1922.

"You can claim half of it," Harold was whispering eagerly into Virginia's ear. "You were with Bill when he found it."

"I can—but I won't," she replied, coldly.

"Gold, gold, gold," he whispered to himself. "Heaps and heaps of it! What I've always wanted. And Bill had to find it. That devil had to walk right into it!"

He was sickened by the thought that except for his own cowardice he would have accompanied them into the den. Then he would have been in a position to claim half the mine—and get it, too.

He found a match. The white skeleton lay just at his feet.

He drew back, startled, but instantly regained his poise. He knelt with unexplainable intentness. He, too, saw the ghastly wound and its grim connection with the rusted pick. And he bent, slowly, like a man who is trying to control an unwanted eagerness, lifting the pick in his arms.

Oh, it was easy to handle and lift! How naturally it swung in his arms! What a deadly blow the cruel point could inflict!

XV

Bill made plans for an early start to his Twenty-three Mile cabin. "I'll leave before dawn—as soon as it gets gray," he told Virginia as he bade her good night. "I'll come back the next day, with a backload of supplies. And with the little we have left, we will have enough to go on. We can start for Bradleysburg the day after that."

Virginia took no pleasure in bidding him good-bye.

Her voice sank almost to a whisper, and her tones were sober and earnest. "I'll pray for you. Here's my hand Bill."

He groped for it, found it at last; it was swallowed in his own palm, and the heart of the man raced and thrilled and burned.

He munched on his snowshoes, crunching on the white crust. The powers of the wilderness gave him good speed—almost to the noon hour.

Then he was suddenly aware that the fine edge of the wilderness silence had been dulled. There was a faint stir at his ear drums. The air grew to a faint and distant murmur, the murmur to a long wailing like a million rustling garments. A tree fell with a crash, far away. Then the wind smote him.

It was from the southeast.

No man of the Northwest provinces is unacquainted with this wind. It is prayed for in the spring because its breath melts the drifts swiftly, but it is hated to death by the traveler caught far from his cabin on snowshoes.

It did not occur to Bill to turn back. Already he was nearly half way to his destination. The food supplies had to be secured, sooner or later; and when the Chinook comes no man knows when it will go away. He munched on through the softening snow.

The truth suddenly dawned upon him that he was face to face with one of the most uncomfortable situations of all his years, in the forest. He didn't believe he would be able to make the cabin before the fall of night.

His woodsman's senses predicted a bitter night.

Through the black hours he would have to fight off sleep so that he could mend the fire and cut fuel.

Late afternoon: already the shadows lay strange and heavy in the distant tree aisles. And all at once he paused, thrilled, in his tracks.

A little way to the east, on the bank of a small creek, his father and his traitorous partner had once had a mining claim—a mine they had tried unsuccessfully to operate before Bronson had made his big strike.

They had built a small cabin, and for nearly thirty years it had stood moldering and forgotten.

Excited and thankful, Bill turned in his tracks and rushed over toward it.

XVI

There was plenty of heart-breaking work to do when Bill, finally reaching the little cabin. He couldn't force open the door, so he backed a hole in it through which he entered.

After looking about, he turned to his toil of making a fire just outside the hole.

Tired out, he climbed inside again and lay down on the dry dirt, putting his arm under his head.

All at once he was aware that his eyes were fastened upon an old cigar box on a shelf against the wall.

As he reached to seize it, he had a distinct premonition of misfortune.

It contained a single photograph.

It was a typical old-fashioned photograph—two men standing in stiff and awkward poses in an old-fashioned picture gallery—printed in the time-worn way.

One of the men was his own father. And he started at the other face—a rather handsome, thin-lipped, sardonic-eyed face—as if he were looking at a ghost.

"Great God," he cried. "It's Harold Lounsbury!"

But instantly he knew it could not be Harold Lounsbury. Already he knew. It was no other than Lutherford, the man who slew his father.

His deductions followed with deadly and remorseless certainty. He knew now why Harold Lounsbury had come into Clearwater, Virginia had told him that her lover had seemed to have some definite place in view for his prospecting; he had simply come to search for the same lost mine that Bill had discovered the previous day.

He knew now why Kently Lounsbury had been willing to finance Virginia's trip into the North—not in hopes of finding his lost nephew, but to find the mine of which he also had some knowledge.

In the same sweep of realization he knew why Harold Lounsbury's face had always haunted him and filled him with hazy, uncertain memories.

Harold Lounsbury was Lutherford's son—the son of his father's murderer. Kently Lounsbury was Lutherford's brother.

All at once the smoke from the fire began to pour in upon him, choking his lungs and filling his eyes with tears.

XVII

For a moment Bill gave little attention to the deepening clouds of pungent, biting wood smoke that the wind, suddenly shifting, whipped in through the hole he had cut in the door.

This was the most bitter moment of his life, and he was lost and remote in his dark broodings. The smoke didn't matter.

The fight for life no longer seemed worth while.

The smoke deepened in the cabin. It seemed to be affecting his power to stand erect. He tried to think of some way to save himself; his mind was slow and dull.

He knew that he couldn't get out of the cabin.

There was only a little hole in the door; to crawl through it, inch by inch as he had entered, would subject him to the full fury of the flames.

Meanwhile the fire burned higher, the wind blew the clouds of smoke from the green wood through the

SAY GERMAN SHIPS ARE USED WRONG

Berlin.—Capt. Roy-Ed, former German naval attaché at Washington, complains bitterly in the shipping trade papers of the manner in which German ships are being treated in American ports where they are charged a fifty cents allied tonnage tax, in addition to a fifty cents charge and the ordinary six cents per net ton.

Boy-Ed says that according to American laws this extra tax can only be raised if other nations are exercising the same rights to America's disadvantage; therefore this extra taxation bears the character of a repressive measure. He points out American ships have always been treated with extreme courtesy in this country and no differential taxes have been charged. The German courts granted the shipping board's vessels extra-territoriality within German harbors, which is an unusual privilege.

Considering America's principle of "free seas and commercial fairness" Germany hopes that Washington will lift the order as soon as she has proved that American ships are treated without discrimination.

JANITOR SUFFOCATES IN BURNING BASEMENT

St. Paul.—John Olson, 50, was found suffocated and slightly burned when firemen reached him in the smoke-filled basement room of the building where he was janitor. He was dead when found. The fire caused damage estimated at $500.

hole as if it were high pressure steam.

It soon was impossible for Bill to see—even to hold his eyes open, the cruel smoke tortured them so.

If ever a man were caught in a terrible trap of his own making that man was Bill Bronson.

His ax! With his ax he could chop the door away. His hand fumbled at his belt. But he remembered now: he had left his ax outside the cabin, its blade thrust into the spruce log that had supplied his fuel.

Suddenly he saw himself face to face with seemingly certain death. The smoke clouds were swirling and surely strangling him. Already his consciousness was departing. He leaped for the opening again and fell sprawling on the dirt floor. He started to spring up—

But he suddenly grew inert, breathing deeply. There was still air close to the ground. Strange! He hadn't thought of it before—just to lie still, face close to the dirt. It pained him to breathe; his eyes throbbled and burned, but at least it was life. Then all was confused—oblivion.

When Bill awakened again, the last pale glimmer of the lighted smoke was gone.

The fire had evidently burned down and out.

His fumbling hands encountered the log walls; then he groped about till he found the plank door. His hands smarted, but their sense of touch did not seem blunted.

He had never known a darker night. His muscles were more at his command now; with a great lurch he sprang up and thrust head and shoulders through the hole in the door.

The hot ashes punished his face and his hand encountered hot coals as he— a stinging lash from the north and thrust them through. Yet with a mighty effort he pushed on until his wrists touched the icy snow. He knew that he was safe.

He stood erect, scarcely believing in his deliverance.

The wind still blew the snow dust—a stinging lash from the north and west.

It was curious that a cloudy night could be so cold. Yet he could not see the beam of a star.

The coals of the fire, too, were smothered and charred in a sudden stepped toward them, intending to rake them up for such heat as they could yield.

Presently he halted, gazing with fascinated horror at the ground.

He was suddenly struck with a ghastly and terrible possibility.

His hand groped for a match.

He heard a crack in the silence, but evidently it was a dud. The darkness before his eyes remained unbroken.

Filled with a sick fear, he removed his glove and passed his hand over the uphold match. There was no longer a possibility for doubt. The tiny flame snarled his flesh.

"Blind," he cried. "Out here in the snow and the forest—blind!"

It was true. The pungent wood smoke had done a cruel work.

Woman's Greatest Aim Is To Save Big Waste In Life Of Children

Mrs. Mariam Finn Scott Maintains Laboratory for Study of Child and Its Parents—Tells What to do for Children.

New York. — Have you ever thought that to raise children or Belgian hares or fancy stock requires a course in special training?

Have you ever stopped to think that plumbers, engineers, chauffeurs and nearly all those who watch or repair machinery must have government licenses?

Have you thought that the most important profession in this world, parenthood, with its supervision of the most delicate machinery, the child, requires no government license?

You will begin to think about these things after a visit to the Child's Garden in West 85th street.

HUMAN BETTERMENT
How Mariam Finn Scott, child diagnostician, has her child laboratory. Here perhaps the most remarkable and progressive work being accomplished by any single individual in human betterment is being carried on.

Mrs. Scott in private life is the wife of Leroy Scott, the author. She has three lovely children of her own.

"My aim is to save the great waste in child life," says Mrs. Scott, "to get the most out of children possible."

"You see, this is my laboratory," and she led me to a room filled with every conceivable object to interest a child—books, knitting materials, paints, blocks.

"When parents want me to diagnose their 'difficult' child, I invite them here. I watch the child carefully and even more carefully, the mother. Her remarks to the child indicate whether she is directing it or permitting it to develop its own initiative.

In talking to the mother I discover the environment in the home, too. I only see a child once as a regular thing, though I often see the parents when I take a child I really take the whole family—for there rests the solution of the child's maladjustment to life.

WRITING ANOTHER BOOK
"I have now the case of a very wealthy family where the father used to be a mere policeman to his child. Now he walks with her every day, talking of birds, of nature, of books. That poor little twisted, soul who had everything money could buy—but who lacked the opportunity of expressing herself—who had everything done for her—is now developing into something beautiful."

Mrs. Scott's book, "How to Know Your Child," is a milestone in social progress. In the spring she will bring "Serve Best."

Mrs. Scott came to America from Russia when she was twelve years old. At sixteen she became one of the directors of New York's First Roof Garden and daily had 1000 children under her supervision. She had studied children for 20 years.

PARIS IS EAGER FOR EVERYTHING OF SPANISH TINT

Plays, Dances, Music and Styles of Spain Go Big in French Capital

By Wilfrid Flecker

Paris. — This is the Spanish season in Paris, everything Spanish is in vogue.

Theatres are giving Spanish plays, vaudeville dancers are performing to the sound of castanets, orchestras are playing Spanish melodies, crowds are swaying in dance halls to Spanish tunes, art exhibits are reading Spanish novels, people are wearing Spanish wear.

There seems to be no other reason for the Spanish vogue than that life in Paris goes by fads, and this is the latest and most startling fad Paris has produced since the war.

The Spanish craze has taken the theatres by storm. From the Opera House to the cheapest vaudeville, Spain holds sway. A new one act operette entitled "Spanish Time" has been given at the Opera House where it has been acclaimed as one of the most successful modern productions of recent years. The famous novel of Blasco Ibañez "In the Shadow of the Cathedral" has been dramatized and is being played to a crowded house at the Opera Comique. Spanish numbers figure in almost every variety show and three review houses: the Folies-Bergeres, the Alhambra and the Olympia are now featuring Spanish numbers.

Raquel Meller, the famous Spanish beauty who sang at the Coliseum in London last season, is the dominating figure of the program at the Olympia, where crowds flock every night to hear her sing her famous folk songs and watch her graceful fifteen minute act.

The public is devouring the novels of Blasco Ibañez, which are prominently displayed in the windows of all the book stores along the boulevards, while Paris society is filling through the art galleries before the canvases of the well known Spanish artist Berthel Masses, an exhibition of whose works was recently held in the rooms of the fashionable Interallied Club.

But the Spanish craze is not alone revolutionizing the activities of Parisians, it is about to do so in the "Parisienne" shall we say, and according to an advance hint given the United Press by a well known dressmaker of the rue Royale, bright yellow is to be the popular color for spring gowns with bright red for evening wear, with black Spanish lace overdress.

STOP NOISE AND AVOID ASYLUMS

Philadelphia.—All our city folks will be in insane asylums unless something is done to stop city noises. If we are to take seriously the opinions of Mrs. Imogen B. Oakley, chairman of the Smoke Nuisance and Unpleasant Odors Committee of the Civic Club here, city noises are shattering our nerves, undermining our health, shortening our lives and driving us to insanity, according to Mrs. Oakley. Personal investigation has shown this to be true she said.

Here are some of Mrs. Oakley's suggestions for reducing our "chances of landing in the 'booby hatch':"

Prohibit the ringing of church bells. They are contrary to American public opinion against sectarianism.

"Alarms" emitting a musical note or scale should be carried on swift-moving vehicles. They should be the same for all vehicles, sirens, bells and so forth to be resorted to only in sudden danger of life.

Suppress street pianos. Prevent the ice man, huckster and other vendors from rending the air with hoarse shouts by putting out signs telling what is wanted.

Newspapers should sell papers quietly—they can sell just as many.

Auto trucks should not be permitted to thunder along residential streets, but should be confined to business districts.

Adventures of the Twins

Olive Roberts Barton

Another Blockade

Well sir, Nancy and Nick saw some queer people and queer happenings and queer ever so many things while they were under the sea helping Cap'n Pennywinkle. But one of the queerest things of all was the manner in which Flatty Flounder changed himself around.

Cap'n Pennywinkle blew his whistle three times, the way he always did when he needed help. The Twins heard it and hurried to the Cross Roads at once.

"What's wrong?" called Nancy. "Oh, there's somebody blocking traffic again," answered the fairy man crossly. "Flatty Flounder is lying here just at the busiest place and he's more stubborn than Tub Terrapin ever was."

Nick went up quite close and gave the flounder a poke. "What's wrong, Flatty?" he asked.

Flatty yawned, then he stretched, and blinked one eye. Perhaps he blinked both eyes, but if he did, no one could see it. He was lying on one side just as you do in bed and one

NEW MOTHER EVERY WEEK

KATHRYN MARIE

Lincoln, Neb. — Kathryn Marie is the most carefully looked after baby in the world.

Because she is the "practice baby" of the domestic science department of the Nebraska State University here. That means that she has all the care and love and coddling that all the girls taking the domestic science course can bestow on her.

And that she has a new mother every week! For a different girl has the "baby" manager job every seven days.

"This practical training in motherhood is making for better babies and lower baby death rates," says University Chancellor Samuel Avery, who got the baby from juvenile court.

"We don't give Kathryn Marie purely scientific care; we mix it with love," says Miss Fuller, university baby expert.

"Ah-goo!" says Kathryn Marie.

Casserole Dishes

ASSEROLE dishes have a distinct appeal in that they may be served in the same dish in which they were cooked, thereby saving dish washing.

There is less waste to foods cooked in a casserole and if the entire meal is served in the same dish, the fuel used to heat the oven may also cook the dessert.

Any casserole dish may be cooked in a fireless cooker.

HOT POT OF HODGE POGGE
One and one-half pounds neck or loin of mutton, 5 potatoes, 1 large onion, 2 tablespoons bacon fat, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, salt and pepper.

Wash, peel and slice potatoes. Peel and slice onion. Melt fat in frying pan and fry the onion a pale straw color. Remove from fat and lightly brown the potatoes. Remove potatoes and put a layer in casserole.

Trim meat and cut in pieces convenient for serving. Fry a light brown on both sides in the bacon fat. Put a layer of meat on the potatoes.

Season with salt, pepper and parsley and sprinkle with onions. Add another layer of potatoes and continue layer for layer until all is used.

Add 1 cup boiling water, cover closely and cook two hours in a moderate oven.

CASSEROLE OF VEAL
One pound lean veal, 3 pound smoked ham, 1 tablespoon bacon fat, 16 tiny onions, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon celery salt, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 3 cups diced potatoes, 1 tablespoon flour.

Trim off any fat from the ham and fry out in frying pan. Cut ham in match-like strips and brown in the fat. Mix salt and flour. Cut veal in dice and roll in flour. Brown quickly on all sides in the bacon fat.

Brown the onions in the fat. Put meat, onions, potato cubes in casserole. Put tomatoes, water and celery salt and pepper in the frying pan and bring to the boiling point. Pour this over mixture in casserole.

Cover and cook an hour and one-half in a moderate oven.

PORK CHOPS AND APPLES
Sprinkle pork chops with salt and pepper. Pare and core apples and cut in rings. Put a layer of apples in a lightly buttered casserole, sprinkle very lightly with light brown sugar and a dash of powdered cloves.

Add 1/2 teaspoon minced onion and 1 layer of pork chops.

Continue layer for layer until the sufficient number of chops are used. The last layer should be of apples.

Add just enough water to prevent burning before the juice is drawn out of the apples. Cover tightly and cook in a moderate oven for an hour and a half. Remove cover and lightly brown the top.

Panama Boasts Of Its Young Aquatic Stars

Panama. — Ever hear of the Canal Zone Red, White and Blue Troupe? They're a bunch of aquatic stars and stunt swimmers — one of the sights down here.

Because the whole troupe is made up of the little children. Every one is a star at some particular kind of stunt and is the youngest performer in the world in his line.

The crack swimmers are little sons and daughters of American workers in the Canal Zone. Their instructor is Henry J. Grieser, who's employed by the United States government to do just that.

Three prize awards are held by the juvenile troupe—one from General John J. Pershing.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

Today's word is DEBACLE. It's pronounced—de-bah-lee with accent on the second syllable.

It means—disruption, stampede, rout, overthrow.

It comes from—the French. It's used like this—"The debacle of the German army was caused by political dissensions at home."

Pastry Recipes Will Be Order After Tomorrow

All cake recipes for the Post-Crescent contest prize of $1 must be in the hands of the contest editor by Thursday morning. The prize will be announced on Monday when a dozen or more of the recipes will appear in the paper. Recipes will continue to be published throughout the year.

Pastry week begins on Thursday when the contest editor will receive your recipe for berry pie, mince pie, lemon pie or any other of which you're fond. If you have an exceptionally good pie crust, send that along.

Any other pastry recipes will be welcomed too for the second prize of $1.

Be sure when you are sending in your recipes that your measurements are exactly correct and your instructions definite. Many a good recipe has been spoiled when one little teaspoon of cornstarch or even a pinch of salt has been left out.

Each week, the Post-Crescent will give housewives a chance to earn $1 for recipes. Each week the contest will be for a different kind of food, so if you are not a cake baker nor yet a pie maker, perhaps your salads are your specialty. If you do not specialise in salad, mashup, flivver cookery is where you shine. At any rate, if you are a cook at all, even an expert candy maker, your chances will come.

Besides the possibility of earning the dollars, your recipe will be printed in the cook book which the Home Economics department of Appleton Women's club will publish in the spring. Mail your pie favorite to the Contest editor at once.

After lunch Polly and Paul, like the other passengers, rooted out their ship clothes and went on deck to locate their chairs and settle into them wrapped so deftly about them.

Upon the other side of Paul was a chair with the handsome rug folded on it, a large box of chocolates and several new novels. Before she looked at the name upon it, Polly felt it would be "Miss Rand," and soon the lady herself appeared and was snugly ensconced at Paul's elbow chatting animatedly. Polly listened between paragraphs of her book.

"Oh, yes, I'm working Magazine assignments. I'm going on with my music, too. Didn't know I sang, did you, Mr. Dawson? Well, I do. And mother has sold the old place down south, so we've a little money. I have a darling flat on Avenue Malesherbes—down a French street who had to come home or I never got it. You and your wife must come see me. It'll be so cozy. I'm crazy about it. Paris is the only place, isn't it?"

As Violet rattled on, Polly felt more and more nettled. She rubbed her the wrong way, and she made her feel insignificant. Yet somehow she fascinated—even Polly. She personified the great world of science, romance, knowledge, success. She knew how to meet all sorts of people.

"I'm so interested in your work, Miss Rand," began Polly when they were alone, "and your cunning apartment. It is possible, then, for a girl to live independently in Paris and not—not—"

"—be talked about?" finished Violet briskly. "Of course it is, just as it is anywhere else. It all depends on the girl. I'm used to being independent and doing what I like. Besides, I have my maid—and my music, which is in itself a sort of chaperone."

"It's better I suppose, to study in Paris."

Miss Rand pursed her lips. "Yes, especially in my case. If I stayed in New York," she flashed a curious smile at Polly, "then looked down at her beautiful ring and began turning it round and round. 'I should have to get married. Ned's a darling, of course, but—oh, well, I don't want to marry him till I have to.'"

"I—I don't believe I quite understand," Polly covered her growing dislike with a smile.

"No, my dear, you wouldn't." Violet spoke not unkindly. "You're the kind, bless your heart, who thinks a minister's words and a wedding ring perform magic. You feel that you and your man will automatically 'live happily ever after' like the princess in the fairy tale—just because you are married and have 'promised.'"

"As a matter of fact—" Miss Rand looked straight into Polly's indignant eyes—"marriage is the hardest job on earth. I'm cowardly enough to put it off till I'm through with the other things I want to do. Then I'll feel better equipped to count my husband."

"Count?" Polly had only breath enough to whisper.

"Certainly—count him and hold him. It's a constant struggle, that is, unless you are content to be just a drab little wife. That's where the French women are so wise. They know a wife must be fascinating, not only sweet and good. They know they must constantly court their husband's—or some other woman's will."

Polly could not forget the conversation. It hammered at her heart all the rest of the day and far, far into the night...

HIGHS SET FAST PACE FOR KIMBERLY

Vincent's Men Find Themselves and Win from Crack Mill Quintet

The high school basketball team defeated the Kimberly-Clark company five, 26-32, in a good game Tuesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The Blue and Orange five had the best team work of the season and is getting down to playing real basketball. The passing game was greatly improved and the defense was in better working order than at any time this season. Brees, captain, played his best game of the year, scoring six baskets. He was shifted to forward late in the game and did some good work with Zussman as running mate. The first half of the game was hotly contested but the millmen were unable to keep the pace set by the highs. Mills, forward, netted five baskets several of which were from difficult angles of the floor. The practice game was invaluable to coach Vincent as it showed up several irregularities that will be remedied before the locals take the floor against Fond du Lac in Alexander gymnasium Friday evening.

Truck in Ditch
Because the steering gear failed to work, a heavy motor truck of W. S. Patterson & Co. landed in the ditch opposite A. J. Shannon's residence on the little "Chute" late Monday afternoon. It was pulled back on the roadway by a Kimberly-Clark Co. truck, where it remained until Tuesday morning, when the trouble was adjusted.

Giants Seek Star Pitcher

Not satisfied with having secured Monte Groh, John McGraw is angling for pitcher Lee Meadows of the Phillies.

Despite the fine showing of the New York pitchers in the world series, McGraw isn't satisfied with the staff.

LEE MEADOWS

The leader of the Giants feels that the addition of another high class pitcher will insure the pennant. He has always been very strong for Lee Meadows.

Meadows is the only bespectacled pitcher in the majors. Despite the fact that he is compelled to wear glasses on the field, he is a very remarkable pitcher.

Without the pair of heavy lenses which Meadows uses while on the field it is said to be impossible for him to see the plate from the pitching rubber with any degree of accuracy.

That would cause one to infer that Meadows is poor on control. Such, however, is far from being the truth. Bad eyesight doesn't seem to affect his pitching in any way, as long as he has his "specs" as Meadows calls them.

Branch Rike of the St. Louis Cardinals is authorized for the statement that Meadows will wear a New York uniform next year.

President Baker of the Phillies says that, while negotiations for Meadows have come from the New York management, there is no chance of McGraw getting him.

President Baker ought to know where Meadows will play, yet last season Cincinnati officials said there was no chance of Groh becoming a Giant.

Groh will be with New York this summer. In all probability Meadows will.

Fondy Coming Here For Game Thursday Evening; Green Bay May Retire

New Squad is Getting in Fine Shape for Battle With Pro Team — Baymen May Surrender Franchise to Manitowoc.

The basketball game between George Dame's Appleton professional team and the Green Bay aggregation scheduled for Green Bay Wednesday evening has been postponed pending decision of several lake shore city interests to take over the Green Bay franchise. It has been rumored that Manitowoc will take the Baymen's place in the Central Wisconsin basketball league but as yet no confirmation has been received from Charles H. Reimer, owner and manager of the Green Bay quint.

Fond du Lac will invade Appleton Thursday evening. Following the cancellation of the Green Bay game Manager Dame got in touch with the Fountain City team and arranged a weekend game with Fondy Saturday evening at Fond du Lac.

The locals are practicing every evening in the Bushey gymnasium to be in the right trim for the invaders. Thomas, former Milwaukee Bright Spots center has proven to be the real find of the season and is going great on the local lineup. Not only is his basketball ability exceptional but he also is a fine floor general. L. Loose forward on the Bushey quint, has been showing some classy work with Kubitz as his running mate.

This is the way the teams now stand:

Today's Sport Angle

By Billy Evans

Achieve greatness in any line of endeavor, sport in particular, and immediately you become a pet target for criticism.

Last year the east heard much about "Brick" Muller, the famous end of the University of California eleven.

He was touted as an All-American certainty. Walter Camp didn't select him for his team.

Although Muller played very little football in the season just closed, not over a few hours of actual play, Camp selected him for his team of this year. Possibly the criticism for failure to pick him last year, was the real reason.

In addition to Muller, Camp selected McMillan as one of the tackles. From the west we have been reading tales about Muller's passes for 40 and 50 yards. Also how McMillan would open up holes in the opposing line, through which his backs could walk for big gains.

Evidently those plays were not made against teams having defensive line play as strong as that of W. & J. When the easterners were scheduled to play California, much interest centered around the two All-America stars of the California eleven; Muller and McMillan.

Stem, the Washington and Jefferson captain, also an All-American selection, came up to expectations. He did commit a fault when he was off-side on a play in which a W. & J. back ran 40 yards for a touchdown. Such things however are a part of football.

It is rather interesting to read what Joe Fitzgerald, former Harvard quarterback, now a coach at Sanford has to say about the play of two All-America stars.

"McMillan and Muller were disappointing," says Fitzgerald. "The former was not only taken out of many plays, but committed himself too fast, and allowed the opposing team to gain many yards through his position."

"Muller, however, was the prize disappointment. Erickson and Brekert ran around him and as though they had never heard of him. On kicks he was also spilt several times and failed to get away with a single forward pass."

Possibly McMillan and Muller realized the football world was watching their efforts, and for that reason they pressed themselves, and failed to show their real form.

Suzanne Wants To Try Again On U.S. Court

By United Press Leased Wire
Nice—The dainty chapeau of Mlle Suzanne Lenglen is still in the tennis ring.

Suzanne wants to "come back" she said to the United Press Wednesday in pretty, broken English, announcing her intention of entering the international tennis tournament on the Riviera in March as a stepping stone to returning to the United States and redeeming her reputation before American tennis fans.

"I intend to fight myself to prove my sincerity and my right to my title on American courts," said Mlle Lenglen, who defaulted to Molla Burestedt Mallory in her one real American trial last summer.

TWO TEAMS TIED IN ST. JOSEPH LEAGUE

All games in the St. Joseph bowling league were completed with the matches Friday evening in St. Joseph hall. Two teams, the Orioles and Canaries finished the season tied for first place. The tie will be played off some time this week at which time the prize will be awarded to the winning five. The league will be reorganized within the next week or ten days and bowlers will start on the second lap of the tournament.

HOFFMAN TEAM LOSES TO KAUKAUNA BOWLERS

The Hoffman Construction company bowling team was defeated by the Kaukauna Champs on the Kaukauna alleys Monday evening in two out of three games. H. Kosetzko was the high man for the local five.

LONE STARS TEAM TO PLAY AT TWELVE CORNERS

The Lone Stars basketball team of the Memorial Presbyterian Sunday school department will journey to Twelve Corners Friday evening to take on the Twelve Corner quint. A number of Appleton fans are contemplating accompanying the team. Members of the team are endeavoring to raise $50 to defray the costs of the basketball equipment. The Lone Stars will lineup with K. Vaughn and V. Corey, forwards; H. Grant, captain and C. Ballard, M. Vaughn and H. Lore, guards.

GRIFFITH BOLSTERS UP HIS SENATORS

Roger Peckinpaugh Will Lead Washington Americans Next Season

New York—A three cornered deal, as important as any recently completed in big league baseball, is announced Wednesday by Roger Peckinpaugh, former Yankee shortstop who will manage the Washington Senators.

Under the terms of the transaction, Joe Dugan, temperamental but star shortstop of the Athletics, goes to the Boston Red Sox. Griffith, manager of the Senators, got Dugan from Connie Mack by sending Bert Acosta and "Bing" Miller to Philadelphia. It is believed some cash was involved as well. The Senators then turned Dugan and Frank O'Rourke over to Boston in exchange for Peckinpaugh.

Washington, by this shift, becomes a formidable contender for the American league pennant, the Senators' management believes. Shanks, Harris and Judge, with Peck at short, make up the Senators' infield.

Boston gains infield strength, if Dugan and O'Rourke fulfill expectations. Connie Mack, as usual in such a deal, gets cash.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Georges Carpentier returns to the ring Thursday night after a six months' lay off to battle George Cook, heavyweight champion of Australia. The bout will be staged in London and many of the English critics are hinting that the French champion's goose will be cooked. It is said that the idol of Paris hasn't looked any too good while in training and his usual over abundance of pep is conspicuous by its absence.

Jimmy Smith, Milwaukee, pin spitter extraordinary, is burning up the alleys on his New York invasion. The pride of the Cream City has been meeting all comers in the Gotham bowling palaces and to date, has made a clean sweep of his opponents. Smith is shooting in great form this season and those who have seen him in action claim he is going better than ever before in his bowling career.

Johnny Wilson doesn't appear to be satisfied to back down and keep still. The middleweight champion has asked the New York Boxing commission for a hearing on the charges filed against him by Tex Rickard. Martin Killea, the Boston Italian's manager, hints blackmail and about everything else. However, the wail of Wilson and company will be given little credence by the boxing fans because his past record isn't much of a shine.

Doc Meanwell's Badger basketballers with two wins to their credit look as if they are headed for a Big Ten caging championship. The Wisconsin quintet appears to be getting better each time out and the ease in which it polished off Iowa and Northwestern makes the Madisonians size up as the best bet in the Western Conference. The Badgers short passing game is raising havoc with opposing teams.

Pal Moore, the jumping jack heavyweight, hopped his way to a win over Carl Tremaine at Memphis the other night after eight rounds of fistie exchanges. Fight appears to be Moore's middle name because hardly a week passes without his being in action. We think that Johnny Buff still has recollections of what happened to him in Milwaukee not so many weeks ago. It is said that Buff got "moore" than he was looking for.

AMERICAN LEAGUE BOSSES WILL MEET IN CHICAGO

Chicago—American league managers will meet here Feb. 12 for their annual confab.

Ben Johnson, league chief, has issued a call for the above date. The draft question will be the important matter to be discussed. The advisory council's recent decision to set a $7,500 price to get the class AA leagues to submit to the player selection will have to be passed on by the owners. There is every indication of their accepting it.

Grapplers Ready For Bout

Eyes of the wrestling fraternity of the Fox river valley will be turned on Armory (where Buck Weaver and George Hill will do their second act for the state grappling title tonight. Both men are in splendid shape for a grueling tussle. Both know a whole lot about the other's style of wrestling and are prepared for almost any kind of eventuality.

It will not be surprising if the bout goes the full two hour limit. Weaver showed that he is not a weakling in his last match when he won one fall from the local man. He is nearly as strong as Saul, who wrestled here last week, and is much more clever. He is nearly as fast as Sanders and is stronger.

Weaver has been wrestling on the Pacific coast for some time, meeting some of the best grapplers in the business. His record includes wins over several men who are regarded as top notchers.

Hill has been keeping himself in splendid condition. Wrestling once a week gives him plenty of mat work and he is improving his endurance by long sessions on the road.

From the Johnston has booked several good preliminaries. The first bout will begin at 8:30 and the main show will start about 9:15.

INTERLAKES PLAY AT FOND DU LAC TONIGHT

The Interlake Pulp and Paper Co. basketball team will play the Wisconsin Arrows at Fond du Lac tonight. The game had been announced for Wednesday night. The pulp mill men are in good shape for a hard contest with one of the best teams in the Fox River valley.

FRIES ROLLS SCORE OF 693 IN THREE GAMES

Appleton bowlers, especially those who use the Arcade alleys are working day and night to get in shape for the annual state pin tournament which opens in Madison the latter part of this month. Appleton will be well represented at the meet.

F. Fries showed championship form when he rolled a score of 693 in a match game with George Frazer, Jr., on the Arcade alleys Tuesday. His scores were 223, 245 and 225. Frazer rolled 180, 191 and 212 for a total of 583.

Doc Meanwell's Badger basketballers with two wins to their credit look as if they are headed for a Big Ten caging championship. The Wisconsin quintet appears to be getting better each time out and the ease in which it polished off Iowa and Northwestern makes the Madisonians size up as the best bet in the Western Conference. GEORGES IS SURE WINNER OVER COOK

By United Press Leased Wire
London — Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of Europe, will be an easy winner in his 20 round fight with George Cook, Australian champion, at Albert hall Thursday night.

This will be Carpentier's first test since he was defeated by Jack Dempsey at Jersey City, July 2, 1921, and the Frenchman is a big favorite over his comparatively unknown opponent.

I recently predicted Cook would win, believing Carpentier had been permanently hurt by Dempsey, but after watching the Frenchman in action at his training quarters, I believe him in better shape than before the Dempsey fight.

The fight will end when Carpentier decides to use his right.

Cook, in his training, has failed to develop the promise he held out of bringing back a heavyweight championship to Britain.

WITH THE CAGERS

Princeton, N. J.—City college of New York defeated Princeton's basketball team here Tuesday night, 28 to 24. City college won the game in the last minute of play when Scholtz, who had just been sent into the game, caged the tie-breaking basket.

Ithaca, N. Y. — Cornell Tuesday night defeated Syracuse university at basketball here, 24 to 18.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Michigan staged a comeback in the western basketball conference tilt with Chicago Tuesday night, defeating the Maroons 21 to 16.

SAVE EXPENSE TO U. S. BY PURCHASE OF ALL LIQUORS

Enforcement Would Be Aided by Disposal of 35,000,000 Gallons, It is Said

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—Purchase by the government of all liquor supplies in the country will be recommended to President Harding soon by the joint congressional committee on government reorganization.

The plan is to have Uncle Sam buy all the liquor now in bonded warehouses. It totals about $5,000,000 gallons and could be bought, it is estimated, for $50,000,000. The treasury would quickly get back this money and more, the committee thinks, by the sale of 5,000,000 gallons for medicinal purposes at $12 a gallon. This is less than tax-paid whisky now costs the wholesaler.

The committee holds its proposal would save millions of dollars now paid out to guard the warehouses and keep records.

Prohibition enforcement officials and Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon league, favor the proposal.

The government must now guard the 140 bonded warehouses in which this whisky is stored and must, in addition provide a vast machinery for its handling so that it will not fall into the hands of bootleggers.

By order of the Court:
JOHN BOTTENSEN,
County Judge.

W. H. KREISS,
Atty. for Estate
